A Suit for Franklin
Insured, Then Killed
Russia Goes Visiting
He Sold His Wife

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE PRESIDENT'S mother, home from her travels, saw everybody, including the King and Queen in Buckingham Palace, where she had tea and told them about America.

Everybody that saw her liked and praised her. This is the news she brings back from Europe, nothing about kings or queens, you notice:

"I have bought the loveliest tweed suit for Franklin."

That's the way mothers are, whether their sons are little boys three feet high or big boys in charge of the biggest country. They are always "little boys needing a suit" to the mother.

Two women are accused of killing a 54-year-old lame man. Martha Clift, 27, turns state's evidence against her alleged partner in the crime, Mrs. Eva Coo, owner of a roadhouse in which Martha Clift and the "handy man" worked.

The confederate's confession states that Mrs. Coo struck the old man down with a mallet, after which Martha Clift "seesawed a heavy automobile over his unconscious body" until he was dead.

At frequent, recent intervals, according to the presecution, Mrs. Coo had taken out insurance on the murdered man, until the total amounted to $9802.60 in policies, of which she was the beneficiary. She is accused of arranging the murder to collect the money.

"Insurance murders" are said to have been made a regular branch of the racketeer murder industry in New York.

There could be no safer murder, especially when the conspiracy includes a doctor to give a death certificate. After which, no questions.

Some government agency should investigate such "insuring." The unfortunate handy man could not well refuse to let himself be insured when his employer demanded it. It should have been somebody's business to know who was to get the money if the insured individual were murdered, who paid the premium. Somebody should investigate every policy not for the benefit of widow or children.

Russia is returning to international "society." When three Russian airplanes, representing the Red army, landed at Prague, an enormous crowd awaited the friendly planes; the Czechs broke through a police cordon to rush out to the field and congratulate the fliers.

A wise young Frenchman, hearing someone say, "When Russia gets rich, she'll act like all other rich people," remarked:

"Russia is rich already, is turning to the right, and already changing her views."

Russia may well be rich, since there is no real wealth except human labor and thought, and no man or woman able to work has been idle in Russia for the past ten years, while we have had ten to fifteen million idle. And there has never been any lack of hard thinking in Russia.

Now that the Russian nation is free of the squandering, vicious, dissipated aristocracy of the czars, progress should be rapid. And every man should rejoice, whatever his opinion of Lenin, or the right of Russians to have their own theories on government, as we have.

Hoboken, N. J., is shocked.

M'MAHON IS NAMED HEAD OF UNION

New York, Aug. 17—Commenting on the re-election of Thomas F. McMahon as president of the United Textile Workers, Francis J. Gorman, who was unanimously re-elected vice president, today said:

"It is possible that with the strike as a weapon, negotiations may be brought to a successful close without the necessity of calling a general strike." Conservative union members said the strike danger had been greatly lessened.

Thomas F. McMahon, of Providence, today was re-elected president of the United Textile Workers of America, the organization that yesterday voted to call a strike—on or before Sept. 1—that threatens to affect 173,000 New England mill workers.

McMahon's election at the New York convention of the union was by acclamation. It followed an about-face by the insurgent element of the convention that yesterday led the successful battle for a strike of more than 500,000 cotton textile mill hands throughout the United States.

This group originally sought the election of Emil Rieve of Milwaukee, as president. Union members who still hope to avert a walkout said that they took new hope from the unexpected support of this group for McMahon.

WASHINGTON ALERT

They said that they were also encouraged by the fact that Morris E. George of Lewistown, Pa., rayon worker and leader of the strike against the Viscose Company, had declined to allow the use of his name as a candidate against McMahon.

KIDNAP GANG RELEASES BREWER

By Associated Press

Toronto, Aug. 17—John S. Labatt, wealthy brewer, returned to his home in London, Ont., today after 65 hours in the hands of kidnapers.

The $150,000 ransom the kidnapers demanded was not paid, for the abductors released their victim as the Canadian police, including the famous Royal Mounted, moved ahead with British tenacity to get their men.

"Cold feet," commented an authority, who disclosed that officials were determined to make an example of these first "snatch" gangsters in Canada's history.

Labatt was unharmed—unharmed but in a highly nervous state, which sent him to bed. Police surrounded his home, where he was reunited with his wife and children and visitors were not admitted, but a friend said he had not been physically injured.

SUFFERS FROM HEART

The brewer suffers from a heart ailment. His family had suffered anguish in his absence, for they feared the strain of his experience would kill him.

His brother, Hugh, who drew $150,000 from a bank in an effort to meet the abductors' demands, had pleaded with police to be given an opportunity to pay and see his brother alive again.

But the Canadian police, ringing his hotel in Toronto in a cordon of watchful men, had stood between the frantic family and the criminals.

KIDNAPED TUESDAY

Labatt was taken from his automobile Tuesday morning as he drove from Sarnia to London.

Hugh was named as intermediary and came here to a hotel immediately. The kidnapers had said they would kill Labatt in 24 hours unless the ransom were paid.

But police arrived at the hotel as soon as Hugh. For hour after hour the brother kept to his hotel room under the eyes of authorities. He was believed to have established three telephonic contacts with the gangsters and, yesterday, he was reported to have gone to Windsor,

A combination hose wagon and ladder truck crashed in Lowell today taking the lives of two Dracut firemen and probably fatally injuring four others. The men were on their way to answer a needless alarm, caused by a short circuit. The truck, turned over, as shown after it skidded 50 feet and crashed into a telephone pole. The huge pole, as is shown, was almost uprooted. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

Tragic Ending of Firemen's Useless Dash

GO TO DEATH ANSWERING NEEDLESS ALARM

Four persons, one of them a girl, were killed today, and 14 seriously injured in auto crashes in Boston, Stoneham and Lowell.

Three of the injured are dying. Cambridge residents are among the dead and injured in the Stoneham crash.

Lowell, Aug. 17—A tragedy of errors cost the lives of two volunteer Dracut firemen today. Two more are dying. Five others are seriously injured.

A short circuit caused an alarm to sound in the Kenwood district of Dracut. A truck from the Collinsville station skidded on wet car tracks, crashing into a pole.

The accident occurred in First street, Lowell. The shortest route from the Collinsville section of Dracut to the Kenwood district is through Lowell. But the Collinsville fire company was not required to respond to Kenwood alarms, and police and fire officials are investigating, to find why they did so.

THE DEAD

McAnestie, Robert, 28, father of three, Lakeview avenue, Dracut.

DYING

ALSO INJURED

Joyce, Charles, 22, single, Cottage street, Dracut.

Wilen, Felix, 24, single, Mammoth road, Dracut.

Sandy, Leo, 23, single, Lakeview avenue, Dracut.

Cullinane, George, 32, Lakeview avenue, Dracut.

Herman's death was expected momentarily. He was on the operating table for more than seven hours and a blood transfusion was performed, with John W. Gray, chauffeur for the Lowell fire chief, as the donor. Other Lowell firemen also offered their blood.

CAR SKIDS 50 FEET

According to police, Usher was driving the machine when he attempted to round an "S" curve. The machine skidded 50 feet, hit the pole and snapped it off at the base. Wires crashed to the ground and covered the apparatus.

The wildly skidding fire truck narrowly missed collision with two taxicabs proceeding in the opposite direction in First street, one operated by Frank Maher and the Springfield, Aug. 17—Claiming to be a raio announcer and son of the late L. L. Wiggins, vice-president of the Rutland Railroad, Gordon Lisle Wiggins, 18, giving an address in Adams street, Burlington, Vt., was arrested today for carrying a loaded revolver.

Boy With 'Fan Mail' From Rudy Vallee Ends in Jail

When he was taken to police headquarters, the name he gave sounded familiar, and on file was found a telegram from the Vermont attorney-general, asking police to apprehend and hold Gordon Lisle Wiggins for armed assault and robbery of a Montpelier, Vt., taxi driver.

The youth denied he was wanted in Vermont for the robbery, but admitted, according to police, that he had cashed four worthless checks totaling $50.

In his possession he had a letter purporting to have been written and signed by Rudy Vallee, and a pass on the Rutland Railroad, made out to Gordon Lisle Wiggins, his mother and sister.

The letter praised Wiggins for his excellence in announcing a "Rudy Vallee" program over the Columbia Broadcasting Co. chain and recommended him highly as an announcer.

Wiggins, who told police his last announcing job was with Station WRDO in Augusta, Me., was arrested after he had struck up an acquaintance with two Springfield youths and told them he could put them in a position to make $150 a week each.

He then is alleged to have displayed the revolver. One of the youths caught the eye of a policeman who approached, and the policeman arrested Wiggins after finding the revolver.

guilty on a charge of carrying the gun and was held in $1000 for disposition Monday. Meanwhile, the Vermont Attorney General was notified.

Mercury Sets New Low Mark for Date

The temperature at 7 a. m. today, dropped to 51.3 degrees, lowest for this date in the history of thhe local weather bureau. The previous record was 52 degrees in 1880.

Last night's rainfall was 0.28 of an inch, making a total for this month to date of 1.32 inches, a fraction less than normal.

Good weather for those who wish to visit the beaches tomorrow or go to the country over the week end, is forecast by the Weather Bureau.

A slight increase in the temperature tonight is predicted, lasting through tomorrow. It will be fair, however, with variable winds.

Boat Carrying 65 ERA Men Grounds

More than 65 ERA workers were "rescued" when the 165-foot army motorboat L-48, on which they were passengers, ran aground on Lower Middle Ground, off Governor's Island, today.

According to coastguard officials, the army boat, used in transporting supplies and workers, was en route to Long Island from the Army Base when it ran aground during low tide. The quarantine tug, David Townsend, arrived at the scene and stood by while the men were transferred.

$239,100 PWA FUND DUE HERE

Massachusetts is to receive $239,100 out of a $24,540,270 allotted today by the Public Works Administration at Washington for non-Federal projects. The entire allotment will furnish work for 700,000 persons.

The money allotted to Massachusetts is divided between Boston, which receives $103,000 for the Northern avenue bridge; Medford, where 107,500 was allotted for sidewalks, and Merrimac, which received $28,000 for schools.

Quincy Rum Chief Raps Druggists

Drug stores are violating the liquor laws in Quincy more than regular drinking places, according to Police Lieutenant James H. Whalen, in charge of the liquor squad there. He said today that complaints against such stores since repeal outnumbered those against taverns and cafes three to one.

The violations of the drug stores consist mostly of selling on Sundays, and flagrant abuse of the use of prescriptions from physicians calling for liquor.

Police Asked to Find Quincy Boy

Police of Quincy were asked today to find Philip Morgan, twelve-year-old boy, of 112 Granite street. He disappeared yesterday, after telling his mother he was going for a walk. When he did not return over night they became alarmed.

The lad is described as five feet, five inches tall, weighing 105 pounds. He wore a blue sweater and pants with a white sweat shirt.

REESE STARTS LIQUOR RAIDS

Swinging speedily into action on his arrival here to stamp out bootlegging and illegal liquor selling, Colonel Josiah L. Reese, new director-general of the federal alcoholic beverages unit in Massachusetts, had begun raiding today.

In the first sortie directed by Colonel Reese and Robert W. Coyne, in charge of undercover agents of the bureau, several men were taken into custody early today at Salisbury Beach on a charge of illegally transporting alcohol.

The alcohol is alleged to have been produced at an unlicensed plant and to have been from one of several sources which have been supplying alcohol illegally to wildcat liquor bootleggers.

Colonel Reese, who arrived in Boston only yesterday after cleaning up Pittsburgh and Detroit, said that the drive against illicit liquor sellers here will be concentrated on the sources.

Later, the colonel said, a drive will begin against package stores, taverns and cafes.

LEGION TOLD CHARGES AGAINST HOSPITALS ARE UNTRUE

DR. RYAN LAUDS TREATMENT OF DISABLED

Brockton, Aug. 17—The Massachusetts Department of the American Legion today, through the chairman of its hospitalization committee, took the opposite stand on veterans' hospitals in the state from that of the Veterans of Foreign Wars' medical officer.

Only the very best of quarters, food and attention is being given disabled veterans in the Massachusetts hospitals, declared Dr. William P. Ryan, of Holyoke, in his report to the Legion convention here today.

He refuted charges of brutality in the institutions, saying:

"Great prominence has been given to reports that veterans in Massachusetts hospitals were not being properly cared for, and that the veterans were subjected to harsh and brutal treatment by guards and other attendants, and that physicians were not properly looking after their welfare.

CHARGES LISTED

"The public was informed that mentally disabled patients at the Veterans' Hospital at Northampton and Bedford were cruelly treated by both doctors and attendants, who either were not capable of caring for them properly or were inhuman enough to inflict brutal treatment upon them."

Because friends and relatives of the veterans were aghast at the stories of "incredulous barbarism," Dr. Ryan said that he visited every veterans' hospital in New England, with the exception of one in Maine, and added:

"I found these stories without foundation in every instance. I found mentally disabled patients at Northampton—some 600 of them—better cared for than the patients of any other veterans' hospital in this or any other country."

DOCTORS PRAISED

Their quarters were splendid; they received the best of food; attendants, orderlies and nurses were "ever diligent," and there was a sufficient number of capable physicians on hand at all times and anxious to give the best possible treatment, according to Dr. Ryan, who added:

"At Bedford similar conditions prevail. I talked with many of the patients at both hospitals and found them pleased and even delighted with the care they are receiving."

After hearing Dr. Ryan's report the convention settled down to the task of nominating officers to be elected for the coming year. Also on the program was the report of the resolutions committee, expected late this afternoon.

Unprogrammed, but a highlight of the day will be the visit of the Legion's national commander, Charles L. Wooley of Providence. He was expected to reach Brockton late today.

LOTTERY PLAN DOOMED

"Sudden death" of the All-Dorchester Post resolution for the establishment of a national lottery, the proceeds to be used for the hospitalization of disabled veterans, was predicted when it was learned that the resolutions committee will submit an adverse report.

The resolutions committee sat far into the night acting on a score of more resolutions offered. Paramount among these is the one offered by State Adjutant Harold P. Redden.

Redden's resolution calls for extensive organization of the Sons of the American Legion and the Junior American Legion Auxiliary as a means of combatting communism in the schools.

The resolution of the Oliver Ames Post of Boston, calling upon the Legion to take the initiative in proposing a plan whereby private industry in this country will be required to hire a percentage of war veterans, is expected to be the subject of much debate on the convention floor. The Ames post points out that this plan is now in use in many European countries.

MILITARY MASS HELD

The second day of the convention began today with a memorial military service in St. Colman's Church.

As the convention proceeded the "political" activity of those seeking election to the state department administrative offices increased. Jeremiah E. Twomey of Lawrence and John E. Conway of Winthrop are the only two announced candidates for the office of department commander to succeed Daniel Doherty of Woburn. Balloting will not be held until the closing session of the convention on Saturday.

Harold P. Redden of Malden, seeking re-election as department adjutant, is expected to have little difficulty in defeating Oscar C. Bohlin of the Belmont-Waverly Post, his only opponent.

The entertainment program for the evening includes a military ball in the State Armory, a parade by the 40 'n' 8 group and a midnight show.

Cutter Cayuga Is Back From Cruise

The coast guard cutter Cayuga, which has been cruising in Mediterranean waters since May on the annual coast guard cadet cruise, arrived at the New London base today.

She is expected to return to the Boston Navy Yard next week, after several days of target practice. With the Cayuga on the cruise was the coast guard cutter Sebago, which will be assigned to New York.

FROTHING DOG PERILS QUINCY

West Quincy residents quaked in fear today with a frothing dog still at large after nipping a boy and a girl and causing injury to a would-be captor.

The animal, a huge chow, invaded the quarters of the Cyril Morrissette Post, American Legion, inflicting a deep bite in the leg of Edward Cavin, 12, of Center street, West Quincy. The Cavin boy was practising with a dozen other members of a junior band.

Martin Peterson, 48, of Common street, West Quincy, tried to capture the dog after he had been attracted by the boys' screams. He slipped and dislocated his knee. The dog ran into the street and bit a girl who has not been identified, then sped away.

Radio calls were sent to police cars and a search was carried on through the night without success.

MARY WALSH APPEAL DENIED

The appeal of Miss Mary Walsh from the refusal of the Boston Licensing Board to graht her a license to sell alcoholic beverages at Circle Grill, Huntington avenue, Roxbury, was dismissed today by the State A. B. C. Commission because of a technical oversight in the filing of the appeal petition.

When the hearing was opened a large number of Mission Hill residents crowded into the chamber at the State House prepared to testify on the local board's side. In answer to a perfunctory question by the commission as to whether Miss Walsh has a common victualler's license, the petitioner answered in the negative.

The commission then announced that it had no choice in the matter but to dismiss the petition.

Colorful Auto Police Urged

By Associated Press

Portland, Me., Aug. 17—Dress up a highway policeman, put him in a bright yellow cruiser car and what's the answer?

Less traffic accidents, says Arlyn E. Barnard, head of Maine Automobile Association. He adds that:

"A policeman on the road is worth two hidden in the bushes waiting for accidents to occur."

The number of accidents would be materially lessened, says Barnard, if highway police wore "conspicuous" uniforms, and if cruising cars were painted brilliant colors and kept moving.

To back his contentions, Barnard says Virginia and Michigan have had success with the color plan.

Springfield Light Plant Cuts Rates

Springfield, Aug. 17—The United Electric Light Company, which serves this city and several neighboring communities, has filed reduced rates with the department of public utilities that will mean an annual saving of $85,000 to its 50,000 customers.

Death Takes Peter Dewar

Hazel Hill, N. S., Aug. 17 (AP)—Peter Dewar died here today following a heart attack. He was born in Perth, Scotland in 1894. Survivors are his wife and two daughters, Mrs. E. G. Hagen of New York and Miss J. Nellie Dewar of Boston.

Sea May Yield One-Cent Gas

By Universal Service

Paris, Aug. 17—A secret process for manufacture synthetic gasoline from salt water, at a cost of less than one cent a gallon, has been offered the French government by A. H. Saheur, a Rouen engineer, it was learned tonight.

Saheur claims his process spells the end of the present petroleum industry, if the method for obtaining synthetic gasoline can be made practical on a large scale.

Beside being of military importance to France, the process would permit ships to refuel in mid-ocean by the conversion of sea water into gasoline, Saheur claims.

He has presented detailed plans to the French government and asks 2,000,000,000 francs (about $12,000,000), for the patent rights.

The details of his process are carefully guarded, but it is understood to have resulted from Saheur's observation that salt water is present in ground where petroleum is found.

NEW DEAL RILES SALTONSTALL

Ispwich, Aug. 17—New Deal policies were attacked by House Speaker Leverett Saltonstall here in an address at a special town meeting called to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the founding of this town. He said:

"The New Deal is so designed as to deprive the individual of the exercise of his initiative."

Two schools of thought are predominant today, he declared. One advocates individualism and the other group wants the government to control everything. He added:

"I dont' believe that either of these plans will meet with the approval of the American people."

$20,000 Tobacco Destroyed by Fire

BANDITS BIND MAN, FLEE

Three masked burglars bound and gagged a night watchman in the Mechanic Laundry plant, Island street, Roxbury, today, but were frightened away before they could open the office safe.

The watchman, George Russell, 60, of Vancouver street, Roxbury, told police the burglars entered with a pass key. At the point of guns, he was forced to the second floor.

There they bound and gagged him and thrust him into a closet, while they prepared to rifle the safe of about $500.

Russell said they fled when they heard someone trying the front door. Russell managed to free himself and call the police.

Russia's "Mother" Dying

man was preceded by news from Washington that he had been appointed as a member of the NRA Labor Advisory Board, indicating, it was said, that Washington is alive to the potential peril of the strike situation.

It was said, however that this appointment had no "official" connection with the union's demand for representation on the code authority.

Another hope for peace was the expectation that the union might seek to strengthen its position before calling the strike.

At present it represents about three-fifths of the workers in the industry. It was hinted that efforts were being made to win over the non-members, some of whom do not favor the strike call.

Meanwhile, the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers' Association, representing 21 of the 27 mills in that city, held its regular monthly meeting today without considering the strike call.

Officers said that no action was taken because they had no demands from the union before them.

GORMAN UNOPPOSED

However, Francis J. Gorman, of Providence, R. I., one of the leading strike advocates, was unopposed for re-election as first vice-president. Today he said:

"We have no intention of changing our stand. We have given the NRA its chance and are willing to co-operate with them, but the people who toil feel that the government has delayed in giving those who are willing to wait the consideration that is their due.

"The workers have asked for the strike in protest against unfair conditions and we feel that there is no question that the walk-out will take place because the workers—not the union officials—asked for it."

STRIKE PLAN GROWS

Over the protests of the more conservative leaders in the union, some members today were planning to extend the strike to the silk, rayon and woolen-worsted fields as well as the cotton.

To complete plans for the strike, 275 delegates of the New England Textile Council, representing 52 unions affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America, will meet Sunday afternoon in Pawtucket, it was announced there today from New England headquarters.

Gorman, who will direct the national strike, will address the delegates. At that time, it was said today, the meeting will be told that the other textile crafts, such as woolen, worsted and silk, are planning to finance the cotton textile strikers.

The strike call, the union leaders pointed out, may come any time before September 1 and only 12 hours' notice will be given to employers.

THREE OBJECTIVES TOLD

Gorman said that the three main objectives of the union were better enforcement of minimum wage standards; adjustment of the "strech-out," or giving operators extra machines to watch, and elimination of discrimination against union workers.

Differentials have not been maintained, Gorman charged today, saying that "the minimum has become the maximum." Skilled workers get as little $12 a week and others as little as $7.50, he said.

More than 1500 local union officers have been discharged on the ground of "inefficiency," Gorman said, adding that "Alabama is the worst place for this discrimination."

In Atlantic City, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, expressed the hope that labor would obtain representation without striking.

WORKERS BACKED

He said that the textile workers were "entirely right" in insisting on representation on the code authorities.

All but 10 of the 571 delegates to the U. T. W. A convention in New York yesterday voted for the strike, although McMahon told them there was no money in the treasury to aid locals.

Among those who urged the strike was Norman Thomas, Socialist leader. He said today:

"The NRA is going to be used to standardize working conditions for the benefit of the bosses. The textile industry has a longer history of exploitations than any other industry, and the bosses never learn anything."

JOHNSON SCORED

Of General Hugh S. Johnson, he said:

"He makes the biggest noise with the least results of any man I ever heard of."

Meanwhile, it was pointed out that New England is not completely unionized, and that in a number of places, Salem for example, a small number of workers might be responsible for throwing the entire group out of work.

30,000 IN NEW BEDFORD

In a number of the places, especially Salem, it is understood that a small number of workers might be responsible for the entire group being thrown out of work by a strike.

At Salem, where there are about 2500 workers employed by the Naumkeag Mills, only a few workers are affiliated with United Tettile. These are in the Loom Fixers Union. But should that union respond to a strike call, all the 2500 employes, it is said, would be without work.

New Bedford, with its 30,000 cotton workers, would be hit hardest should there be a strike.

Samuel Ross, president of the Mule Spinners Union at New Bedford, said:

"It is the feeling of the convention there should be a strike. I presume the local union would follow along. Or, regardless of what the local union should say, I presume enough workers would walk out so that the rest would follow anyway.

"We might just as well be on strike, "because so many are out of work."

LOWELL INDIFFERENT

In Fall River there are between 2500 and 3000 workers associated with the United Textile. These, it is understood, would respond to a strike call. There are 5000 other workers in the American Federation of Textile Operators. James Tansey, their president and spokesman, said last night:

"We're not interested in a strike."

South to Ignore Strike Vote, Says Editor Clark

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 17 (AP)—David Clark, publisher of the Textile Bulletin, said today:

"Southern textile workers are not going to obey any general order for a strike. There may be a few workers in a few isolated cases that would strike, but as a general things a program of this kind is destined to failure.

"The reason southern textile workers are not going to strike is they have no reason to strike and they know it."

JEWS GUARDED FROM ARABS

By Universal Service

London, Aug. 17—Police reinforcements have been sped from Jerusalem to Hedera, Palestine, to prevent aroused Arabs from taking violent measures in retaliation for the death of an Arab Boy Scout in a brush with Jewish residents, a Central News dispatch stated.

The Arab Boy Scouts, known as "Muftis Militia," without receiving authority took it upon themselves to guard the town boundaries against illegal entrance of Jewish immigrants.

The ill feeling resulted in a clash between Jews and Arabs last night. Two young Arabs were wounded and one died. Hedera is midway between Jaffa and Haifa.

MAINE HONORS VISITORS

By Associated Press

Augusta, Me., Aug. 17—Maine today pays homage to its thousands of summer visitors. The occasion was the state's second annual summer visitors' day party, replete with music, speeches, song and refreshments.

There were seating arrangements for 10,000 persons in front of the decorated stage at the entrance to the state park, where guests of honor, including the governors of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, U. S. senators, actors, authors, composers and other notables were to sit with Governor Louis J. Brann.

The musical program was to be directed by Master of Ceremonies Rudy Vallee.

EX-WIFE SUES NILS ASTHER

By International News Service

Hollywood, Aug. 17—Allegations that Nils Asther, film actor, owes his former wife, Vivian Duncan, $5000 in back alimony were on file today in court where Asther was cited to show cause why he should not be held in contempt.

When Miss Duncan divorced him Asther was ordered to pay her $25,000 at the rate of $500 a month.

Taunton Firemen Menaced by Blast

Taunton, Aug. 17—Deputy Chief John M. Galligan, and two firemen, narrowly escaped injury today, when a hot air explosion blew out a large plate glass window during a fire at the Pioneer Grocery store, on High street.

The store and its contents were completely destroyed by the fire of undetermined origin. John Caras, the owner, awakened by smoke, led his wife and son to safety.

N. H. Socialists to Ask Thomas' Aid

Concord, N. H., Aug. 17 (AP)—Socialist leaders today announced a special committee had been named to bring Norman Thomas, party candidate in 1932 for President, to New Hampshire, to speak in a number of communities in the fall election campaign.

'CLIENT' FOUND CONCEALED IN CLOSET

By Universal Service

Los Angeles, Aug. 17—As a preliminary skirmish in the legal war that Albert Rogell, film director, has declared against his blonde wife, Ena Gregory Rogell, a midnight raid was staged at the Beverly Hills mansion of William Van Rensselaer Smith, wealthy attorney, it was revealed here.

The raid occured last Friday and assertedly caused Mrs. Rogell to hide in a closet, while Smith, clad in pajamas and dressing gown, sought to cope with the raiding party of seven men and one woman, it was revealed.

HID IN CLOSET

Smith, who has been named co-respondent in the divorce complaint of Rogell and who also has been sued for $150,000 by the film director in an alienation of affections action, in a statement described the asserted raid as follows:

"Mrs. Rogell came to my home as a client, and to discuss the divorce complaint which her husband had sworn to on August 7. She had previously telephoned that information to me and asked to see me. I was prepared for bed, but told her to come.

"We were sitting my living room when suddenly there was a terrific pounding on the door. Fearful of some kind of an invasion by criminals, such as kidnapers, I told Mrs. Rogell to hide in a closet.

8 RUSH INTO ROOM

"Seven men and one woman rushed into the room. In the excitement that followed, several articles of value to me were destroyed."

Milton M. Cohen, Sr., attorney for Rogell, referred those who sought specific details to Lucien Wheeler, who conducts a private detective agency. The latter refused to describe the raid, but admitted that a "complete record had been compiled."

Rogell, who filed his divorce complaint last Saturday, accused his wife of association with other men and with attending too many cocktail parties. He amended the complaint last Tuesday, specifically accusing her of undue friendliness with Smith.

VISITING AS CLIENT

Rogell says that he "knew about the raid."

Mrs. Rogell, who has been staying with a prominent film actress since the divorce complaint was filed, declared:

"Oh, this is too terrible. I have heard so many stories. I am not guilty of any wrongdoing, and the charges of my husband are absolutely untrue. I was visiting Mr. Smith purely as a client."

Healthiest Boy and Girl Picked

By International News Service

Chicago, Aug. 17—Urban and rural America divided honors today in the Century of Progress competition to choose the healthiest youngstrs in the nation.

Clista Millspaugh, a 17-year-old lass from Mount Pleasant, Ia., won the prize as the healthiest girl in the United States while Mortimer Foxman, 16-year-old Chicagoan, placed first among the boys.

Clista is a farm girl. She weighs 127 pounds, is 5 feet 1½ inches in height and milks 16 cows a day. She explained:

"I get lots of work and play and sleep. I like to milk cows and pitch hay and ride horses and play baseball and basketball."

Mortimer explained:

"All I do to keep healthy is to eat good food, a lot of vegetables, swim some, play tennis, do my school work and help mother in the store and get plenty of sleep when I can."

The fact that a midnight raiding party last week found Mrs. Rogell in the home of William V. R. Smith, wealthy Beverly Hills attorney, has just been revealed. As a supplementary action to the divorce case, Rogell filed a $150,000 alienation of affections suit against Smith, who was named as the "other man in the case."

Girls View 200 Officers After Mystery Charge

Investigation of charges by two Lynn girls against a patrolman of the North End station will be continued, Deputy Superintendent of Police James McDevitt declared today in spite of the failure of the girls to identify the officer thus far.

The charges, made by Miss Dorothy Barnes, 17, of Washington street, and her companion, Miss Mary Watson, 18, of Buffam street, both Lynn, were not revealed by Deputy McDevitt.

Two hundred officers attached to the North End station stood in a lineup in the guard room while the girls attempted to identify the officer against whom they have brought charges.

The lineup included all except 16 men attached to the division. Deputy Superintendent McDevitt declared today that a similar lineup will be held when these 16 report for duty after vacations and sick leave.

The nature of the girl's charges remain a mystery, but police declared that officers of the North End station had been watching a house on Poplar street, West End, where the girls stayed while they were missing from their Lynn homes from July 25 until last Friday.

According to police, the girls admitted that they had entertained some men friends from Peabody at the Poplar street apartment during the time they lived there.

Everett Police Radio in Test

Further tests of Everett's new police radio car were continued today following the discovery of many "dead spots" about the city.

Messages to the car will be broadcast over Somerville radio station, WPET, which has a direct telephone line to the Everett police station.

'S' IN ST. JOHN'S DIVIDES PAIR

A reunion between two brothers who had not met for 40 years was temporarily delayed over that old dilemma whether the St. John in New Brunswick or Newfoundland has a final S.

Michael Regan of 408 Stevens street, Lowell, came to Boston to meet his brother arriving from St. John (s). He first met the liner St. John from St. John, New Brunswick, but failed to sight his brother among the passengers.

Hurriedly he made for Charlestown to meet the Nova Scotia, docking there from St. John's, N. F., but arrived after all the passengers had debarked.

Regan, discouraged, went home to Lowell, to find his brother waiting for him there. The brother had arrived by train.

SIEGEL DEATH CLUE SOUGHT IN AUTO

Tactics used so successfully in the solution of the Needham bank robbery and murders were resorted to today by state detectives in a search for clues to the slayers of Nate Siegel, war veteran, slain by gangsters in his Revere home.

State Detectives John F. Stokes and Joseph L. Ferrari have ordered that the killers' car be dismantled. A minute search of each section of the machine will be made in the hope that some small detail may lead to the slayers.

At the same time, Boston police will continue their roundup of known gangsters. They will be brought to headquarters and subjected to questioning.

2 SUSPECTS FREED

Two North End men, suspected in the past of gang killings, were released by the Boston police today after they had been questioned for several hours last night. Both denied they knew Siegel.

The dismantling of the sedan will begin today when Stokes and Ferrari arrive in Revere. Stokes said:

"We don't expect to solve all murders in the future by looking at batteries in automobiles, but we have learned that details like repairs to automobiles may prove of vital importance to us. That's why we are going to make a thorough examination of this car."

TRAIL AUTOMOBILES

The state detectives yesterday concluded interviews with the family of the slain man, his business partner and Reserve Officer James Gray of the Revere police department.

Gray told the detectives that he saw the killers' car on Ocean avenue less than half an hour before the former champion boxer was murdered. He noted the registration of the car and will attempt to identify pictures of suspects today.

Sunken Bullion All Salvaged

By Universal Service

London, Aug. 17—After three months' hazardous work in treacherous seas off the desolate coast of Donegal Island, divers have recovered the last of the bullion from the torpedoed White Star liner Laurentic, which is lying in 120 feet of water.

The London Daily Mail, in publishing this, says the bullion was secretly transferred at midnight to an Atlantic liner which stopped by the salvage ship, as prearranged.

The Daily Mail says the liner then proceeded to Liverpool, where the gold was placed under an armed guard aboard a train and sent to the Bank of England.

The amount recovered from the Laurentic is being kept secret, but private syndicates have now salvaged the last of five million dollars in bullion, left in the hull by Admiralty divers, who took out 25 million dollars in gold and silver bars between 1918 and 1924.

Candidates Won't Lose Relief Rights

War veterans, running for public office, will not be dropped from the soldier's relief rolls, according to an announcement by Charles H. Carey, Boston soldiers' relief commissioner.

Following a consultation with Mayor Mansfield, Carey said that no action would be taken unless it was found that the veterans were using relief money to conduct political campaigns.

Society Bride Runs Home On 70 Cents Daily

By Universal Service

New York, Aug. 17—A boy and a girl, both born to wealth, may live happily as newlyweds on a daily outlay of 70 cents for household expenses, Mrs. Ann Whiting Murray, 20, society bride of a necktie salesman, declares.

Mrs. Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giles Whiting, of Scarborough-On-Hudson, revealed how she and her husband, Julian Murray, 26, find contentment in a one-room East Side apartment.

It is an apartment with a small kitchenette, and it was subleased from a friend, for Mrs. Murray and her husband insist on living on Murray's salary as a necktie salesman. He gets $18 a week. Her more or less secret marriage, April 21, was not an elopement, she said, but just an impetuous act. Mrs. Murray went on:

"I'm furious about the fuss made about my marriage, and I am tired of this 'love-in-a-cottage bunk.' I am tired of talk that I am in revolt against society. I just happened to marry someone I liked."

And she talked of budgeting her husband's salary. She said:

"I don't think it takes much budgeting when you have to live on 70 cents a day. But we do it. I can't cook, but I am learning. The way to learn to cook is to cook for someone you like."

OTHERS BLAMED FOR CRIME LAID TO LITTLE EVA

Cooperstown, N. Y., Aug. 17—The weird torture trial of "Little Eva" Coo took an unexpected turn today as the names of two more roadhouse women were linked with the death of crippled Harry Wright at the haunted house on Murder Hill.

This was disclosed by James Byard, defense attorney, when he charged today that immunity had been granted to three persons linked with the slaying of Eva Coo's handy man, but not charged with the crime. He said:

"There are three others who should be as closely tied up with the death of Harry Wright as my client, Eva Coo.

ASKS OTHER CHARGES

"If, as the state claims, the deceased in this case was murdered they, too, should be listed with my client and Martha Clift, the woman who admits she operated the death car.

"Immunity has been granted to Mrs. Clift. Her confession, revealed in court by District Attorney Grant, is an abject admission of guilt.

"The prosecutor admits that he has bargained with this woman for her testimony against Eva Coo. From the appearance of things other bargains were made."

It has been definitely established, International News Service learned today, that Mrs. Eve Hanover and Mrs. Gladys Shumway, two of the state's material witnesses now locked up in jail here, rode in the murder car on the night Wright is alleged to have met his death at the hands of "Little Eva" on Crumhorn Mountain.

TESTIMONY READY

A garage man in Oneonta, about 22 miles from here, is prepared to testify that on the night of June 14 when "Gimpy" Wright died, the two women drove the car Mrs. Coo and her friend, Mrs. Clift, are alleged to have used to crush out the life of the crippled county character.

Harry Nabinger, Detroit salesman, whom the state expects to call today as the first important witness against Eva Coo, is the third of the trio named by Byard as having been granted immunity by the state in a bargain designed to send the backwoods resort keeper to the chair.

CALLED MASTER MIND

Following closely on charges that the former Canadian nurse was tortured, Byard prepared today to prove that Nabinger was the mastermind of the plot to clean up nearly $10,000 through the death of the cripple who thought he was "Little Eva's" common-law husband.

Nabinger, for a year and a half the friend of Mrs. Coo, has turned against the plump blonde for whom he deserted his wife and six children in Detroit and is ready to help the state send "Little Eva" to the chair.

"TORTURE" DESCRIBED

A week after Wright was battered to death by an automobile on the mountain, Mrs. Coo was taken to the scene, Byard said. The body of the 49-year-old house painter was dug up from its grave and taken along, he declared.

There in the shadow of a "haunted house," while the blonde roadhouse proprietress looked on, Byard charged that officers re-enacted the crime. He said:

"Mrs. Coo was forced to lift the dead man's body out of the road. He added that she had been made to shake hands with it."

LOVE TRAGEDY TRIAL SET FOR SEPT. 10

By Universal Service

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Aug. 16—Bobby Edwards, 21-year-old Lothario, accused of the "American Tragedy" murder of Freda McKechnie, his neighborhood sweetheart, will go on trial Monday, Sept. 10, if the grand jury returns an indictment next week, District Attorney Thomas M. Lewis says.

Lewis announced:

"I am going to prosecute the case myself and press for a conviction in the first degree. We will get an indictment on the confessions made by Edwards to state police and county detectives. I expect to list the trial on the first day of the four-week court session."

Five witnesses will be called before the grand jury in the Edwards case, Lewis said.

Boy, 14, 'Turned Down' in New York, Back Home

Deciding that New York was not the "city of opportunity," as he had been told, Edmund D. Roche, son of Ben Roche, wealthy Chestnut Hill real estate man, missing since Monday, returned today to his home at 161 Woodland road, Newton.

The father notified Brookline police of the boy's return. Edmund, who is 14 years old and a student at the Public Latin school, told his parents that he had started to hitch-hike to New York, where he expected to find a job. He had $6 when he started.

In New York, he said, he answered an advertisement for an office boy's job, but when he arrived at the address he found that another boy had been hired.

When his funds were running low, Edmund said he decided to return home. On the way back he met a tramp, whom he gave five cents. He got a ride to Faneuil Hall Market from a farmer in New Haven. He walked from Boston to his home and went to bed on arrival.

Shorts Banned on B. C. Courts

The use of the tennis courts in the rear of Boston College are open for use by women—but they must not appear in shorts.

Such is the rule laid down to female tennis players by Rev. Sidney Smith, S. J., a member of the faculty. Rev. Father Smith was obliged to call this rule to the attention of a charming Georgia miss who appeared at the tennis courts garbed in white shorts.

The yong lady accepted the rule gracefully and departed.

Free Lunch Ban in Quincy Bars

There will be no more free lunch served in places selling beer and other alcoholic beverages in Quincy after August 20. The Quincy Liquor Board so ruled today. It prohibited all places dispensing liquors from distributing free food.

The board also ruled that, beginning on thesame date all paackage sales must stop at midnight, instead of 1 a. m. as at present. This ruling was made in response to a request from the liquor dealers of the city.

WOMEN'S CLUB BACKS COLE

The Massachusetts Women's Political Club, an organization of several thousand women, today through its president, Miss Florence Birmingham of Brighton, announced its unanimous endorsement of the candidacy of General Charles H. Cole, Democratic candidate for Governor, and the entire Democratic State ticket.

The organization, Miss Birmingham says, has a committee formed in every ward in every city and town in the state and will do its utmost to nominate and to elect General Cole and the entire Democratic ticket.

The club opened headquarters at 92 State street. Among those who are heading up the speakers committee are: Miss Mary Rooney of Lynn, Miss Eleanor M. Mitchell of West Roxbury, Miss Margaret E. Donahue of Brookline, Miss Alice Cardonza of Dorchester, Miss Helen E. Kelley of Brookline.

Pressey, former rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, will officiate. An informal reception will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw. Mr. Tibbetts attended Deering High School and is now associated in business with his father. Miss Nichols was educated in the schools of Gardiner.

RANSOM NOTE IS MYSTERY

By Associated Press

Goldsboro, N. C., Aug. 17—A ransom demand for $25,000 today puzzled authorities investigating the disappearance of the Rev. R. H. Askew, tent evangelist.

Although the 28-year-old "four square gospel" preacher apparently dropped out of existence Tuesday, the case did not come to light until two days later when his 50-year-old wife turned over the ransom note to Sheriff Paul Harrison.

The note, typewritten on a piece of cheap paper said:

"Get $25,000 at once or you will never see your husband alive again. Instructions will follow."

Officers said anyone familiar with the financial status of Askew and his wife could not expect $25,000 to be raised.

Dachshund to Be Ship Model

By Associated Press

New York, Aug. 17—Underslung ocean liners are indicated as the next move in naval architecture. For liners, underslung means lowering the center of gravity, or center of mass, by shifting the weight downward.

The change would reduce the "heeling" of fast ships, or their tendency to dip to one side when making a turn. The discoveries indicating that this change is possible were made public today at the Sperry Co., and described by F. P. Hodgkinson.

They came from 18 months' study of the action at sea of the first stabilized liner, the Conte di Savoia, whose three gyros reduce rolling in rough weather.

Sister Tells of Kidnap Blindfold

By International News Service

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 17—John S. Labatt, wealthy London, Ont., brewer, was blindfolded with strips of tape during the entire period of his confinement by the kidnapers who suddenly released him last night on the outskirts of Toronto.

This was revealed to International News Service today by h sister, Mrs. R. E. Balders, who received full information on the details of the kidnaping by telephone from another sister, Mrs. Chipman, in Montreal.

Said Mrs. Baldwin:

"My brother was released on St. Clair avenue. He was turned out of a car there. My sister told me his health was all right and that his detention did not seem to have affected him.

"He is with my brother this morning and they have left for their home in London.

"He was blindfolded and his eyes were taped, from the time he was seized, and he told the family that he had no idea of where he was detained.

"He was not, the family stated, injured in any way, but is more or less sshaken by his experience.

"He could not give any idea of the location of the place where he was held, or how far it was from the point where he was seized in his car, about sight miles from Sarnia."

BREWER SAFE; RANSOM IS WITHHELD

across the border from Detroit, for a few hours. His trip gave rise to a report that the ransom had been paid.

But Hugh did not know where his brother was. It was regarded as unlikely that John, himself, knew, for his eyes were blindfolded, it was said, throughout his imprisonment.

GOES TO HOTEL

Shortly before dawn, the abductors released him on the outskirts of Toronto. He hailed a passing taxicab and went at once to his brother's hotel. This was accepted as an indication that the kidnapers had told him where Hugh might be found.

No money was paid for this information, according to the best authority. The first kidnapers in Canada failed to get a cent for their efforts.

Meanwhile, in London, police heads of the Province of Ontario gathered to chart the law's course on the trail of the kidnapers.

Acting Chief Inspector Miller conferred with Sergeant F. Crowe of Toronto and Inspector H. Gardner of Windsor, in the office of Inspector W. C. Cousans, in charge of the London detachment of the provincial police.

In Hugh's hotel suite, the brothers met again. It was the first intimation Hugh had that his brother had escaped. Only pausing a few minutes, they entered an automobile and rushed to the Labatt home in London, 110 miles away.

WIFE IS DELIGHTED

It was not until the trip was completed that R. G. Ivey, a spokesman for the family, announced the return of the 55-year-old man.

His release ended terrible hours for Mrs. Labatt and their three children. Mrs. Labatt had been calm throughout the ordeal, taking care of John, 6, Mary, 4, and Arthur, who is only three months old.

Mrs. Labatt had not been well since the youngest child's birth and her physical condition added to the anxiety which the other members of the family felt.

Inspector John Miller of the Ontario provincial force, went to London at once to join Inspector T. W. Cousans. Neither one gave out information other than to indicate that police efforts were being redoubled.

MANY ANGLES PROBED

Indications were apparent that police efforts would be directed toward the following angles:

Discovery of the exact point at which Labatt was removed from his black sedan as he drove toward London from his Sarnia Beach cottage;

Identification of "Three-Fingered Abe," the gangster who signed the ransom note found in the car, and his partners in crime;

Location of the hideaway at which Labatt was kept captive;

Identification of strangers who called at Hugh Labatt's hotel suite Wednesday night and Thursday;

The activities of the family in their efforts to obtain the brewer's release.

The impression has grown on the basis of stories told by district residents that Labatt was taken from his car not on the main highway, which it was presumed he had traveled, but on the Egremont side road, some 15 miles north of Sarnia.

U. S. GANGSTERS MENTIONED

Various gangsters from the United States have been mentioned in connection with the case and fingerprints were said to have been sent from Detroit to Albany for comparison with those on record from the kidnaping last year in the New York capital of John O'Connell, scion of a New York political family.

The "Canada tract" of bushland along Lake Huron and a "farmhouse in western Ontario" were talked of as possible hideouts. The unidentified men who gained admittance to the hotel were viewed as possible intermediaries.

HITLER SPEAKS FOR 'YES' VOTE IN HAMBURG

Hamburg, Aug. 17—On arriving here today for his Plebiscite speech tonight in which he will demand a "yes" vote in approval of his assumption of presidential prerogatives, Reich Leader Adolf Hitler found this ancient Hanseatic free port beflagged in his honor.

Nazi storm troopers, local policemen, members of the Hitler youth organization and a guard of honor recruited from the crew of the battleship Schleswig Holstein were drawn up at the Hamburg airport for the official reception when he arrived by plane.

The battleship had come here to give Hitler a 21 gun salute.

All school children were given a holiday.

HAMBURG HARD HIT

Hitler's selection of Hamburg for the crowning effort was considered significant. Hamburg, a great port, has been hard hit by Nazi trade restrictions.

Hitler will speak between 8 and 10 p. m. (3 and 5 p. m., E.D.T.). His address will be broadcast.

While Hitler was flying to Hamburg, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, at the opening of the German radio exposition in Berlin revealed today that 5,360,000 Germans possess radio sets. In July, 1932, there were only 4,100,000 sets.

PROTESTANTS PROTEST

Fourteen hundred Protestant pastors, meeting at Barmen, declared their opposition to the Reverend Ludwig Mueller, former army chaplain and now Reichsbishop under the Hitler regime, it was disclosed today.

They adopted a resolution, which, after a lengthy preamble, declared:

"He who obeys the present church government disobeys God."

It is reported that 30 pastors were arrested after the meeting.

Doctor, 65, Leaves Riches to Actress

Hollywood, Aug. 17 (INS)—To Miss Hedwig Carolynne Mueller, his actress friend, Dr. C. M. Sutton, 65, left his vast fortune. To his divorced wife, Rosa Sutton, he left nothing, and he bequeathed $1 to a daughter. Miss Mueller said:

"It is my reward for devotion to him. For years I was his dearest friend. In his last illness I was with him constantly. I am a very sad woman—but I suppose a very fortunate one."

Carney Says Many Are Unemployable

Of the estimated 400,000 unemployed in this state, one-quarter of that group is "unemployable," according to State ERA Administrator Joseph P. Carney.

Carney, in a speech at the opening of the new transient camp in Warwick, said that the departments administered by women gave him the least worry.

Baby Swallows Ant Poison, Dies

Westerly, R. I., Aug. 17—Ahmed Northup, 21-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Northup of White Rock, is dead at a hospital here from poison contained in a small metal tube used to kill ants. He had swallowed the tube.

Await News From Flier

Mrs. George H. Gray and her daughter, Nancy, are anxiously waiting word at their Maywood, N. J., home for news from their husband and father, George H. Gray. Gray disappeared from a plane when it made a forced landing. He is believed to have become unnerved by the incident and to have lost his memory. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

Byrd Rescuers Found Him Preparing for Death

By Universal Service—Mackay Radio.

Little America, Antarctic, Aug. 17—In the snowbound fastness of the shack where he had spent four and a half months alone, Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd was preparing for death when aid came Monday.

Gradually weakening under the effects of poisonous fumes from the kerosene stove he had to keep burning to prevent from freezing, Byrd had calmly resigned himself to the certainty of death and had written "last" letters to his friends when the tractor rescue party reached his advance observation base.

Over the feeble radio from that advance base, 123 miles south of expedition headquarters, Dr. Thomas Poulter, commander of the relief party of three, told of the preparations Byrd had made for his end.

THOUGHT OF OTHERS

After two futile attempts, the tractor party on Monday finally fought its way through blizzards and temperatures that hung around 60 degrees below zero to the base where Byrd spent the winter alone. Byrd managed to greet them with a "Hello, fellows." Poulter radioed as follows:

"My observations here and remarks that Admiral Byrd has made convinced me that he has gone through things, particularly during the first three weeks of June and the past two weeks, that must have been beyond human ability to withstand.

"He was convinced he had reached the limit of his endurance. He was true to the Polar code and played the man gallantly.

"As I think back, I see things in his radio messages that were put there to keep us from realizing his condition. He feared that the attempt to reach him would risk the lives of others.

WROTE FRIENDS NOTES

"Although he was up to meet us, he should not have been. He is showing marked improvement, but it will be some time before he fully recovers his strength.

"A note dated June 15 was hung over his table. It referred to letters he had written to various people and where the letters would be found. He thought the tractor would arrive too late.

"He had written us a note which he had left on the table, but which he pushed out of sight when we entered the shack. I marvel at how complete a set of scientific data he has obtained and how painstaking he has been with it."

28 Rescued After Iceberg Sinks Ship

North Sydney, N. S., Aug. 17 (AP)—A crew of 28 shipwrecked French fishermen, entrained last night for Montreal after telling how their three-masted schooner Navarin had foundered after striking an iceberg off Greenland. Brought into port by the French cruiser Ville D'Ys, the men revealed they had drifted in open boats three days before rescue by another fishing vessel. At Montreal, they will embark for homes in France.

Prize Envelopes Increased in New Treasure Hunt

Another Treasure Hunt will take place next Sunday at Paragon Park, Nantasket Beach, with everybody welcome and with many treasures to be unearthed by the keen-sighted.

In this Treasure Hunt, there will be 350 treasure envelopes containing certificates hidden about the Nantasket Beach resort.

Treasures include cash in amounts from $1 to $10, strips of tickets for rides at Paragon Park and round-trip tickets for the Nantasket boats of the Nantasket Steamboat Co. line.

In next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser there will be a Treasure Coupon. You must have this coupon if you wish to enter the Treasure Hunt.

When you find a treasure certificate, take it, with the Sunday Advertiser coupon, to the administration building, and you will receive your treasure.

Clip the coupon in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

other by Henry Wood, both of Lowell.

They were forced to veer sharply to clear the truck, and they stopped and went to the assistance of the volunteer firemen, trapped in the overturned vehicle.

McAnestie and Dillon were dead when police arrived in response to a call from a Lowell taxi man. The names of Usher, Joyce and Wilen were placed on the danger list at St. John's Hospital.

RAIN CAUSED ALARM

Sandy was also taken to St. John's Hospital and Pouliot and Cullinane to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The alarm was sounded by a short circuit in the fire alarm box at Kenwood. Investigators believed it was caused by the rain.

2 Die, 7 Hurt, as Autos Crash Here

While Reading State police searched the roads in an effort to halt their speeding automobile, a Cambridge girl and man were killed today and four other persons seriously injured, when the car crashed into two telegraph poles in Main street, Stoneham.

The dead are:

Alice F. O'Connor, 19, of 1423 Cambridge street, Cambridge.

John McCarthy, 26, of 1560 Cambridge street, Cambridge.

Injured are:

Lillian Cunningham, 24, of Green street, Somerville.

Ruth Whitten, 22, of 69 Cedar street, Wakefield.

Stephen Coleman, 18, of 20 Greenough avenue, Cambridge.

Thomas J. Larkin, 26, of 9 Greenough avenue, Cambridge.

McCarthy was killed almost instantly when thrown through the windshield. Miss O'Connor died a few hours after arrival at the New England Sanatorium at Spot Pond.

Physicians at the sanatorium said Larkin, Miss Cunningham and Coleman would recover. Their names are on the danger list.

The group was returning from Chester Inn, on the Andover-Reading road.

According to state police of the Reading barracks, someone called the state police barracks and advised that the speeding car be stopped.

One man is dying at the City Hospital and two others were seriously injured when a taxi cab was struck by another machine at Berkeley and Tremont streets early today. On the danger list is Malachi Hackett, 44, of Meriden, Ct. superintendent of transportation for the New Haven Railroad. He suffered a fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain.

John Murphy, 35, of Forsyth street, Back Bay, freight agent for New England district for the New Haven railroad and Salvatore Canavo, 36, of Princeton street, East Boston, suffered less serious injuries.

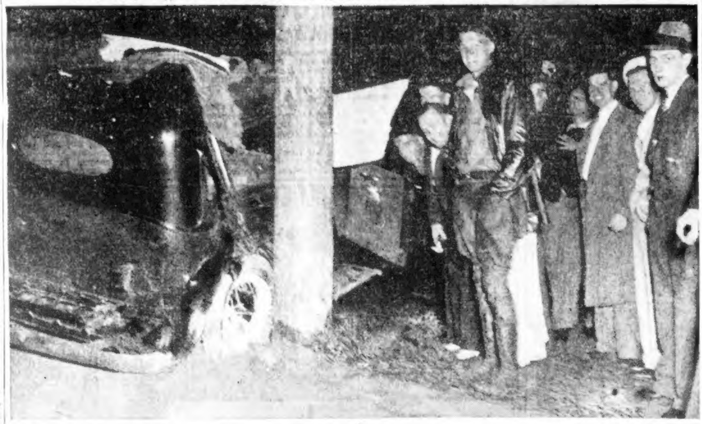
The taxicab which was proceeding along Tremont street, when a machine operated by Miss Louise Mallard, 38 Tremont street, Boston, collided with it. Both cars were badly damaged.

Buttles Boy Loses Sight of One Eye

Rutland, Vt., Aug. 17—Accidentally shot through the temple, Stephen Buttles, 13, of Brandon, was reported by surgeons to have lost the sight of his right eye, while every effort was being made to save the other one.

The boy, while able to take nourishment, has not yet sufficiently recovered to tell how the accident occurred, which left him 42 hours unconscious in the woods.

Death Strikes Two as Car Crashes in Stoneham



ALICE F. O'CONNOR

LILLIAN CUNNINGHAM

Two persons were killed and four other persons seriously injured when this automobile crashed into a pole in Main street, Stoneham, early today. The dead are John McCarthy and Miss Alice O'Connor, both of Cambridge street, Cambridge. Miss Lillian Cunningham of Green street, Cambridge is among the injured. According to police the group was returning from a party in an Andover roadhouse and the driver was hitting a 70-mile-an-hour speed when the crash occurred. After snapping one pole from its base, the car caromed off and crashed into a second pole 150 feet away. The driver was least seriously injured. 'Book Notions' for Police Scored in Providence

By a Staff Correspondent

Providence, R. I., Aug. 17—"Book notions" of how to run a police department are keeping the city of Providence from any sort of efficiency in its administration of crime prevention, Frank J. Duffy, president of the board of aldermen, told the Boston Evening American today.

He termed George T. Marsh, chairman of the board of public safety, the "Laura Jean Libbey of the Providence police department." He said that Chairman Marsh is attempting to administer the department along the lines of the police fiction of 20 years ago.

The aldermanic president said:

"Nowadays, crime is not solved by these old detective story ideas. It is solved by experienced detectives, men who are acquainted with the underworld and its methods, men who know the background of each criminal in the department's jurisdiction.

"Men of that type are being eased out of our department to make places for men that can pay a specified tailor $12 for one uniform shirt and $20 for two shirts. That is what the new men have to pay for that part of their uniforms when they enter the department."

Duffy blasted Chairman Marsh as a writer of fiction stories, who attempts to administer the department along the lines laid down in his fiction.

He said the investigation is to be held by the House of Representatives. The investigation was ordered after the lower branch of the General Assembly passed a resolution appointing a committee to hold public hearings.

This inquiry by the House of Representatives is awaited with deep interest. It is understood that quite a few officers, who have been retired against their wishes, will go before the special committee and tell stories of how the department is administered by a military clique.

Revelations of a sensational character are expected to result when this committee begins its job.

The identity of the legislators, who will hear the testimony of police officers, has been closely guarded by Speaker Reddy. He announced:

"There will be no whitewash of this investigation. I will announce the names of the legislators later and they will begin work immediately. Everything brought out of this investigation will be placed before the people through the newspapers."

SAFETY BOARD CALLED

Attorney General John P. Hartigan has expressed his intention of attending all sessions to aid legislators in questioning witnesses. John T. Maguire, former captain of detectives who was ousted by the Board of Public Safety and now chief of the criminal investigation department for the state, will be present at the hearings.

The entire Board of Public Safety will be called before the legislators to answer questions concerning the administration of police affairs.

looks of another gentleman's wife, bought the wife for $700, to be paid in instalments like an automobile, "with her romantic consent," the last instalment paid recently.

That makes all that are absolutely well behaved shudder, although many millions of human beings on earth never get a wife except by purchase. Other millions may sell a wife, if they choose, and no evil is thought of it. It is thinking that "makes it so."

Death and the grave reveal strange secrets.

Briand, eminent French statesman, died and was buried in a simple peasant's grave in Normandy. Later, Mme. Jeanne Nouteau died, and, after objections, her family, that had cast her out, permitted her burial in the family plot near her husband, dead long ago.

She had married the husband, a banker of St. Nazaire, when seventeen, soon fell in love with a young Anarchist, who later became Briand, powerful French statesman. They never married, but lived together until he died. In his will, although his fortune was considerable, he left her nothing.

Although very poor, she never would sell the hundreds of love letters that Briand had written her.

Now she lies near her lawful husband in the cemetery of Nazaire, and Briand, far off, in his peasant's grave in Normandy. Women, as a rule, get the worst of it.

Good news for farmers. Hogs reached another new high price in Chicago yesterday, $6.40 per hundredweight. The news comes too late to save tens of thousands of little unborn pigs inside of farrow sows, thrown into the Mississippi to cut down the surplus. It may save other little pigs from an equally sad fate. And perhaps, but not probably, it will teach government not to be in too much of a hurry to kill off unborn pigs and discourage cotton, wheat, corn, while millions are starving and half-naked on this earth.

HUEY LONG WINS PROBE DRIVE

By Associated Press

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 17—Senator Huey P. Long was ready today to push through the Legislature his "kingfish" program for investigation of New Orleans and impeachment of its authorities.

All signs pointed to a sweeping investigation of the administration of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley and there was a widespread rumor that a petition was in prospect for impeachment of two judges of New Orleans Civil District Court.

Long's personally-supervised House bills were ready to skip through the Senate where he and Governor O. K. Allen, held a safe majority.

As passed in the House over objections of a weak minority, this program gives the Governor a free hand with the State Militia beyond court interference, added strength in election machinery and a state police force sufficent to enforce law anywhere in the state.

Auto Kills Maine Woman

MYSTERY GIRL FACES COURT

A pretty mystery girl, found bruised and beaten in a lonely Concord road, faced district court there today, while police tried to learn her real identity.

After treatment for a broken nose and two black eyes at the home of Dr. O. L. Clark of Acton, the girl said she was Esther Riley of Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay.

Police placed a guard at her bedside in Emerson Hospital, to which Dr. Clark had ordered her removal.

She is 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 100 pounds, is of medium complexion and has black hair. Police believe she was struck with a heavy instrument, rather than fists, and then was ejected from an automobile. When police found her she was lying in the side of the roadway near the Lake Walden reservation.

Smallest to Largest

A 225-pound father, one of the biggest and strongest men at police headquarters, was today the proud daddy of a 56-ounce baby boy.

The father, Oscar Hand, is a clerk at the detective bureau. Both Mrs. Hand and the baby were said to be doing well at St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford.

GIRL REVEALS 'HONOR' KILLING OF FATHER

San Jose, Cal., Aug. 17—An inquest into the mysterious death Tuesday night of Robert Beauchamp, 65, Gilroy rancher, came to a climax here when his 19-year-old daughter, Bernice, broke down on the witness stand and testified she was his slayer.

Shot through the heart, Beauchamp's body was found in his ranch house and officers at first were undecided whether he was slain or had committed suicide.

BREAKS DOWN

The daughter at first testified her father had committed suicide. Then she broke down and said she had shot him when he assertedly made improper advances toward her. She was the final witness at the inquest.

A murder charge was sworn against her by Undersheriff Earle Hamilton and she was placed in the county jail.

Records disclosed the girl was committed to the Agnew State Hospital for the insane October 27, 1932, and released in October, 1933.

PARENTS SEPARATED

She has been living with her mother, Mrs. Ida Beauchamp in San Jose. The parents were separated but not divorced. She went to visit her father at his Gilroy ranch, Tuesday night.

The girl at first related she heard a shot and rushed into the kitchen to find her father slumped in a chair with a revolver on the floor.

Joe Roberts, who lived with them, said that he had found the girl holding her father in her arms and the gun in her hand. She gave him the revolver and declared her father had shot himself.

SAID FATHER ASKED FOR GUN

Officers said she later told them her father had been drinking heavily all evening and was making advances to her. She said she had taken a revolver to her father because he had asked for it.

When he refused to cease his attentions she said she got the gun and fired one shot over his head in an effort to frighten him.

The shot hit the lamp and she went to another room and got another lamp. As she entered the room again, she said, her father started to rise and approach her and she aimed carefully at his heart, fired and he fell.

She said his last words were:

"Oh, my God, I meant right by you."

Jap Visitors at Tea in White House

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—An imperial couple from Japan found the White House topsy turvy today, but the President's hospitality was equal to the occasion.

Because the formal reception rooms have become places of business while the executive office is being remodelled, Mr. Roosevelt invited Prince and Princess Kaya to the second floor—to have tea in the intimate family quarters. They were the first visitors from abroad so honored.

Green-Hued Water in Charles Safe

The greenish tinge to the Charles river at Waltham was found due to a fungus growth and does not render the water unsafe for bathers.

Samples, taken by city health inspectors, following complaints, proved that the water was in no way effected by the presence of these microscopic algae.

STOOPNAGLE STOOPS TO CONQUER ON AIR

Carol Deis Also on Program as Aid

By W. J. B. for N. F. T.

With Everett Marshall singing "The Thrill Is Gone" and "De Glory Road" Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle and his assistant Budd, continuing their series of Stooperettas and Victor Young's orchestra playing tuneful "ditties" the "Spotlight Revue" tonight (WNAC at 10:00 p. m.) is sure to furnish entertainment for the most critical listener.

Carol Deis

In addition Frank Crumit promises some more of the old time songs including "In The Shade of the Old Apple Tree" and "By The Sea" and at least two numbers in which he will be assisted by Carol Deis and the Eight Gentlemen From Milwaukee.

Other numbers included on the musical portion of the program are "Hill Billy Willie," "The Thrill is Gone," Medley of Oscar Straus waltzes, "The Boogie Man," "Belle of Barcelona" and a group from "Love Me Tonight."

In her second concert since returning from vacation Jessica Dragonette will sing Liszt's "Liebestrum," Kjerulf's "Last Night" and "Love, Your Magic Spell Is Everywhere" in the Cities Service concert tonight (WEEI) from 8:00 to 9:00 p. m. Frankie Parker, the youthful tenor, will render as his specialties "Then You'll Remember Me" and Friml's "Only a Rose" from "The Vagabond King." Rosario Bourdon will conduct the orchestra in "Toreador et Andalouse," "March Francaise," "Serenade" and other classical compositions.

The dance and concert music to be played (WEEI) from 9:30 to 10:00 p. m. on the Scott Furriers program includes the following selections: "Going to Heaven on a Mule," "Deep in My Heart," "Canto Siboney," "Don't Let Your Love Go Wrong," "Whispering Flowers," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "I've Got a Right to Sing the Blues," "La Donna e Mobile" and "Head Low."

* * *

Victor Young, the distinguished composer, arranger and conductor whose music is one of the features of tonight's Spotlight Revue, was present at an audition recently given by Evelyn Lawton, a singer, who also happens to be strikingly beautiful.

When Miss Lawton was introduced to Victor he told her:

"If I were to shut my eyes I could imagine that it were Mme. Jeritza or Lily Pons, but—I much prefer to keep them open!"

* * *

After numerous requests Johnny Green's "Night Club Suite" will be repeated tonight (WNAC), at 9:30 p. m., in the composer's popular "In the Modern Manner" program. The composition is descriptive of typical scenes in a fashionable evening resort, and its six "impressions" are subtitled: "Linen and Silver," "Ladies and Gentlemen," "Table for Two," "Dance on the Dime," "Tango at Midnight," and "Corks and Bubbles.

You Hear Him on the Radio

Del Castillo . . . Who buried horses for eight months . . . Which made him awfully sick of horses . . . So he quit France and the war . . . And went back to band leading . . . Because the war was over anyway . . . Even if all the dead horses hadn't been buried.

Staff organist at WEEI . . . And received his first piano instruction from his mother . . . At the age of five . . . That is, he was five . . . Not his mother . . . But he declines to say how far back.

Attended Rindge Tech . . . in Cambridge . . . Leading orchestra and glee club . . . And composing his first piece . . . The Rindge M. T. S. March . . . So they sent him to Harvard . . . Where he conducted the university orchestra two years . . . Writing and conducting the Pi Eta shows . . . Not to mention the Boston Symphony . . . On Harvard Night at the Pops.

Barnstormed . . . After college . . . But in 1917 opened a nine-year engagement at the Fenway Theater . . . As organist . . . Interrupted by a year in the army . . . Where he was bandmaster of the 302nd F. A. . . . At Camp Devens . . . A second looie on July 4, 1918 . . . And spent eight months overseas . . . Burying horses.

First radio broadcast in 1924 . . . With Fenway Organ . . . And he scared speechless . . . Almost . . . But you'd never know it now.

Began barnstorming again in 1926 . . . But quit to come back to Boston . . . Into the Metropolitan . . . For a year . . . And then opened a theater organ school here . . . Training hundreds . . . Until 1929 . . . When he became WEEI staff organist.

While serving a year in Springfield . . . as music director for the Bijou . . . He found a wife and brought her back to Boston . . . And now there are Elaine and Janet in the family.

$2000 BAIL SET IN AUTO DEATH

Plymouth, Aug. 17—Because of an automobile ride in which Miss Josephine P. Lapham, 29, matron at the state pier, fell or jumped to he rdeath from his car, Bernard W. Cassidy, 50, of Oak street, was held in $2000 bail today for a hearing in district court next Monday.

Cassidy, a married man, was charged with manslaughter and with leaving the scene of an accident without making his identity known. His attorney, Willard F. Carlton, was unable to be present in court today and a plea of not guilty was entered for Cassidy.

The woman died in Jordan Hospital as a result of the fall adn Cassidy, a laundry truck driver, was arrested at a Yarmouth camp a few hours later.

5 Escape Fire at Connecticut Hotel

New Preston, Conn., Aug. 17 (AP)—Five persons fled to safety early today as fire of mysterious origin destroyed Chalyn Lodge Hotel at the south end of Lake Waramaug, with an estimated loss of $20,000.

Mrs. Hattie Devine, owner of the 100-room frame structure, a friend, Mrs. McCullough, two guests, Mrs. William Garrington and daughter of New York city, and John Rohr, an employe, escaped from the second floor by means of a ladder.

Evangeline Booth Lands in England

Plymouth, Eng., Aug. 17 (INS)—Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in America, on landing here today from the Leviathan, said world leadership of the Salvationists was not too big a job for a woman.

She was met at the pier by General Edward J. Higgins who is retiring from leadership of the Army at 70 because of ill health. Commander Booth denied that there was any friction in the Booth family.

State of Europe Disturbs Editor

New York, Aug. 17 (US)—Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, editor of the Washington Herald, returned in the French liner Ile De France with "great uneasiness" about the state of Europe. She said:

"No one looks for immediate trouble. England, France and Italy will watch that Hitler doesn't get fresh with Austria again."

Caucus Leaves Connecticut Senate Fight in Air

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 17—The ultimate outcome of the three-cornered contest for the Democratic nomination for United States senator was left very much in doubt by the state-wide caucus.

Except in a few scattering instances, the caucuses held in the 69 Connecticut communities elected uninstructed delegates to the state convention which meets in Groton Sept. 6 and 7 to nominate the principal candidates for the November election.

All of the three candidates in the senatorial contest—Representative Francis T. Maloney, Professor Harry Morgan Ayres of Columbia University, and Labor Commissioner Joseph M. Tone—won some pledged delegations.

Representative Maloney was assured the support of 19 delegates from his home city of Meriden, 21 from Stamford, and seven from Winsted.

Professor Ayers' home town of Westport pledged its six delegates to him, while Burlington instructed its two delegates to support him.

Commissioner Tone was pledged five delegates from New Milford and four in East Hartford and appeared certain of 7½ votes from Danbury.

The Meriden and Winsted delegations were also instructed to support Governor Wilbur L. Cross, who is expected to be renominated without opposition.

It was announced today that the national chairman, Postmaster Farley, will address the convention Sept. 6.

THREATEN 'WARNING' ON SOVIET PLOTS

Tokyo, Aug 17—The Japanese government is "considering the possibility of sending a general warning" to Moscow as the next step in their gravely strained relationship, a foreign office spokesman said today.

This procedure has not yet been decided upon, he added.

The spokesman said the possible warning would recount many frontier incidents, including alleged Soviet plots and provocations.

Settlement of past cases would be urged with assurances requested against repetitions. "But such a warning will not necessarily carry threats," the official asserted.

17 RUSSIANS HELD

This spokesman denied the arrest of 17 Russian officials and employes of the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchukuo this week or other troubles there were connected with the deadlock in Japanese negotiations for purchase of the railway from the Soviet.

The arrests, in which the Russians were charged with revolutionary plotting against Manchukuo, "are purely Manchukuo's affair and Manchukuo is an independent state," said the official.

"Concerning the Chinese eastern railway negotiations, we consider them still in progress and not broken off."

USE OF FORCE DENIED

Referring to Moscow dispatches charging that Japan is preparing for forcible seizure of the C. E. R., the spokesman asserted:

"This is entirely an absurd canard. I can guarantee that Japan is preparing for no forcible action against the Soviet."

News that a warning to Moscow is being considered came after Japanese newspapers published threats of military action against Russia because of the situation in Manchukuo.

Troublesome issues between Tokyo and Moscow have been frequent since Japan took over Manchuria three years ago and created the "independent state" of Manchukuo.

WANTS RUSSIAN ROAD

Japan is anxious to own the Chinese Eastern railway, which constitutes a vital Russian activity in that section.

Several Japanese newspapers published anonymous statements, said to have emanated from the army propaganda bureau, saying the army had "decided to adopt a stronger attitude than before in the event of future Soviet provocations on the Russo-Manchukuo frontier.

2 BOYS SEIZED IN 40 THEFTS

Admitting, according to police, that they had robbed forty homes, stores and automobiles in Newton and Weston, three boys were arrested today after an investigation of several weeks.

William Baker, 16, of Bourne street, Auburndale, a caddy, was arrested by Metropolitan police and turned over to Newton authorities charged specifically with the larceny of a necklace from the Vogue Beauty Shop in Auburndale.

He was held in 5300 for a hearing in one week when arraigned in juvenile court in Newton.

Joseph Voner, 18, of Webster street and Edward J. Ferrick, 17 of Melrose street, both in Auburndale, were arrested by Newton police and turned ov reto Waltham authorities.

Police said in the homes of the boys were found many articles admitted by the lads to have been stol en from parked cars, homes and stores.

Boy's Globe Trot Ended

The world ends at Boston for 14-year-old Harold Hewitt of Dalton, a "globe-trotter."

Hewitt, tired and foot-sore, early today stopped Patrolman James Hayes in a cruising car on Milk street. He told Hayes that he started out to see the world yesterday with 20 cents in his pocket. He asked Hayes to help him get back to his home, because he had given up the idea of seeing the world.

He was given a place to sleep and his family notified. Until his parents arrived, he played checkers with the police officers.

Coolidge Memorial Meeting Aug. 26

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 17—Plans for a memorial to Calvin Coolidge will be discussed by more than 100 residents of Windsor County on August 26.

They will meet in the little white church, frequented so often by the late President, and probably take action toward the creation of a memorial corporation.

Pickets Banned in Clothes Strike

Strike of about 1000 clothing workers of Boston became picketless today on an agreement between the workers and employers.

According to an announcement by Morris Biller, spokesman for the clothing manufacturers of Boston, strike was called when certain employers offered rates below the union scale.

WHEAT EXPORTS CUT TO ZERO BY DROUTH

By Associated Press

Washington, Aug. 17—Ravages of the drouth received new emphasis today when it became apparent that the United States will surrender all its wheat markets abroad in 1935.

Department of Agriculture officials acknowledged that the exports of America, which held a commanding position since 1890, will total zero next year. They were quick to add that the United States expects to reclaim its share of world markets when the situation returns to normal.

Crop curtailment, put into effect before the drouth "cracked down," helped reduce the American farm supply, but officials say the drouth would have hit the farmer much harder if it were not for the benefit payments resulting from the AAA.

Other drouth aspects:

1—One-sixth of all cattle in the country and one out of every ten sheep will go into little tin cans to be passed out by the government to the needy next winter.

2—Secretary Wallace's suggestion of an "ever normal granary" seemed likely to emerge as one prime result of the farm rehabilitation drive. It would seek to equalize the supply over years of scarcity and abundance.

3—Rain, which almost reached cloudburst proportions in some parts of the Midwest yesterday, will benefit some later crops and renew some pastures, officials said. But on much of the land where the scourge of aridity hit hardest plants are burned beyond redemption.

4—The effects of the disaster will reverberate into next spring. Just now farmers are selling to the government only cattle which face immediate starvation. As winter wears on, officials said, feed supplies will dwindle rapidly and the government will have to go on buying for months.

MEAT TO BE SCARCE

5—Secretary Wallace geared his drouth machine to the expectation that the chief problem is feeding animals, not people. The only inconvenience human beings face, he indicated, will be a shift in diet from scarce food to abundant ones. Some meats are expected to be relatively scarce.

6—Prices rose yesterday in Chicago to a point at which packers' costs were the highest since 1930. But new advances in grain virtually were cancelled on reports that the government might move against speculation.

When the world wheat situation returns to normal, officials hope America can sell abroad about 125,000,000 bushels a year—somewhere between 10 and 20 per cent of the total yield.

U. S. Export Quota Ten Million Bushels

By Associated Press

London, Aug. 17 — The United States was tentatively allocated a 1934-35 wheat export quota of 10,000,000 bushels by the International Wheat Conference today, the Associated Press was informed by an official source.

Argentina's export quota was placed at 150,000,000 bushels, this source added.

The low figure set for the United States was a startling one. It has been said 30,000,000 bushels would be acceptable to Washington.

Argentina had asked an allotment of 150,000,000 bushels.

UXBRIDGE BOY'S NAME CHECKED

Uxbridge, Aug. 17—Ralph H. Alton, superintendent of the Worcester Suburban Electric Co., today communicated with St. Joseph, Mo., police in an effort to determine whether or not his son, George Gilbert Alton, 19, is being held with a Hollywood girl for stealing an auto. Bail was set at $50,000 for the arrested boy.

Police of St. Joseph arrested the pair last night when they were found sleeping in a stolen car. The arrest was made, they said, after the youth made two attempts to shoot police officers. Four guns and a mask were found in the car.

The girl arrested with the youth said her name was Geraldine Darling, 21, of Hollywood, Cal.

Alton declared that his son had been on vacation in the West since his graduation from the Worcester Academy last June. He declared that he received a letter a week ago from his son. The youth was in Los Angeles when he posted the letter and his father knew of no reason why he may have left that city, he said.

Elopes to Wed Lynn Man

MRS. HARRIS   STANLEY G. HARRIS

While father slept—pretty Lorraine Kaufman, of Santa Monica, Calif., quietly left their fashionable summer home, the Mt. Washington House, Bretton Woods, N. H., to elope with Stanley Harris of Lynn. This was Tuesday afternoon. The scene of the wedding was at Conway, N. H. The couple met just five days before their marriage. The groom is a member of a wealthy Lynn family. They are now resting a few days at the Copley-Plaza, before going on extended honeymoon. The bride's father is Leon E. Kaufman, a Los Angeles woolen dealer.

CANAL BRIDGE STRIKE GROWS

Sagamore, Aug. 17—A strike by 200 carpenters, employed on the new Bourne and Sagamore bridges over the Cape Cod canal, being built under federal supervision, assumed serious proportions today when a sympathy strike by the steel workers was predicted.

Although the steel workers have as yet issued no statement, the carpenters said that the steel men might strike if no settlement is reached today.

Trouble arose when the strikers claimed that they were doing the work of first-class carpenters and should be paid $1.20 an hour instead of the 80 cents an hour they received as second-class carpenters.

Rear Adm. Dungan Gets Quincy Berth

Washington, Aug. 17—The Navy Department has ordered Rear Admiral Paul B. Dungan to additional duty as naval inspector of ordnance at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Quincy, Mass.

Other navy orders included Lieutenants John Sylvester and William S. Whiteside, from the Naval Academy to instruction, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., about September 15.

Escaped Madman Discovered Dead

Boxford, Aug. 17—The body of a patient who escaped a month ago from Danvers State Hospital for the Insane was found in the unoccupied home of Charles A. Parker of Ipswich road.

According to police, the patient, Everett Ryan, 38, of Hart street, Gloucester, was killed when he fell from a noose found hanging from the ceiling. The man was believed to have been dead for a month.

GOODWIN HAS RACE 'IN AIR'

The "triple threat", Frank A. Goodwin, Republican, Democratic and Independent candidate for governor, is center of attraction for all political eyes today as the time for withdrawing nomination paper approaches.

If Goodwin intends to withdraw any of his nomination papers he must do so before 5 p. m., election officers attached to the secretary of state's office ruled today.

SAYS SEPT. 27 LIMIT

Goodwin on the other hand gives no evidence of any intention of withdrawing his papers and contends that he has until Sept. 27, a week after the primaries, to withdraw as an independent candidate.

Action of the seven avowed candidates for the Democratic nomination for Congressman from the Ninth Congressional district is being closely watched. Congressman Robert Luce is unopposed for the Republican nomination.

RUSSELL JOINS FIGHT

The Democratic candidates are Frederick S. Dietrick, of Cambridge, who opposed Luce two years ago; Mayor Richard M. Russell, of Cambridge; School Committeeman John L. Delaney, of Cambridge; Albert L. Brophy, of Watertown; Edward T. Cauley, of Boston; Paul A. Collins, of Brookline, and Frank L. White, of Newton.

Nomination papers for Mayor Russell were filed last Tuesday, a few minutes before the final minute. Since then, efforts have been made to induce other candidates to withdraw in his favor.

TOO TIRED TO PLAY . . . . . and then he Smoked a CAMEL!

Here's the rapid way to bring back energy when tired!

Within a few minutes after smoking a Camel, when weary and dispirited, you will find your vim and vigor definitely increased. First you notice the full, rich flavor of Camels. Then comes a delightful "lift" in energy.

Idea Not New! Thousands of Camel smokers have long known and enjoyed this wholesome effect. And now scientists fully confirm their experiences, as you may have read already.

Camels have a positive "energizing effect." Through it your latent, natural energy is made available. The feeling of well-being and vigor, natural to all, is quickly heightened.

So make Camels your cigarette. Be one of the great army of smokers who are delighted to "get a lift with a Camel." With Camels you can smoke just as many as you want. Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand. They will not ruffle your nerves!

"There's nothing that lifts up my energy the way a Camel does. I smoke a lot. Camels never interfere with my nerves!"

1 pint salt
1 pint sugar

[illegible]

Question. [illegible]

Answer. [illegible]

Question. Will you please send me a recipe for [illegible] Cake? Mrs. W. S., Lynn.

Answer.

CHEESE CAKE

1 package zwieback
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¼ tsp. salt
5½ cakes cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 eggs
1 cup cream (½ pint)

Roll the zwieback into crumbs, add the butter and two tablespoons of sugar creamed together. Blend thoroughly, put into a 9-inch spring form mold and press down evenly on the bottom.

Mix the cup of sugar with flour and salt and cream thoroughly with the cream cheese. Add vanilla and yolks of eggs and beat, add cream and mix again. Fold in the beaten egg whites, pour mixture on top of the crumbs and bake in a moderate oven 3[illegible] deg. F. about an hour or until center is set.

Question. I am having a sister come to stay with me from the hospital after a serious illness and wonder if you could help me out by sending me some recipes and menus for her or any help for serving things temptingly?

Answer. Unless a doctor has prescribed a diet for the patient, the [illegible] convalescent [illegible] should [illegible] lost weight.

There are a few things that should be given careful attention in preparing food for the invalid. The appearance is very important as an aid to appetite. Food should be very dainty, served in tasty small quantities. Hot foods should be served hot and cold foods cold, taking into consideration the time that elapses from the kitchen to the sick room. Less seasoning is generally required for the person in delicate condition. Eggs, milk, vegetables and fruits are generally the foods that are given in quantities, and you should strive to serve these foods in a variety of ways.

We are sending you some recipes for simple desserts, salads and fruit dishes.

Question. Will you please send out an S. O. S. through your columns for different fillings for Strudel as served by the Jewish people? Mrs. S., Chelsea.

Answer. We will be very glad to receive any contributions concerning this matter.

Just a Tip to Roosevelt

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Some time ago Walter Winchell called public attention to a sign hanging in this writer's office.

Anybody can drop in to see us any time. The result is a long line of schemers who are as batty as a barn at twilight.

Finally we hung up the sign reading, "Crackpots, attention! No china repaired here."

After reading and listening to the hundreds of political theorists and nutty prophets hanging around Washington, it wouldn't be a bad idea for Mr. Roosevelt to hang that same sign up on the White House.

IL DUCE FAVORS MONARCHY IN AUSTRIA

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service, Inc.

London, Aug. 17—Premier Mussolini of Italy has informed Prince Starhemberg, Austrian vice-chancellor, that he favors the restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy in Austria, I learn on the highest authority.

The Duce has prepared the way for the historic step and his declaration in his recent talk with Starhemberg, leader of the Austrian Heimwher, is expected to be followed by a conference between emissaries of the Fascist chief and former Empress Zita, mother of Archduke Otto, the Hapsburg claimant.

WANTS CATHOLIC RULE

There is even talk of a meeting between Mussolini and Zita Herself.

The Duce told Starhemberg that only a Catholic monarchy in Austria solidifying the Catholic front of Austria Hungary and Italy could safeguard Austria against penetration by "Nazi paganism."

Such a Catholic front would have great repercussions, too, he pointed out, on Catholic Bavaria, preventing any Nazi incursions into Austria from the Bavarian side.

ZITA AMBITIOUS

Zita is ambitious to regain the Hungarian, as well the the Austrian throne. But such an attempt would be dangerous at this juncture since the little entente—Rumania, Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia—would consider restoration of the Hapsburgs in Hungary as the signal to start armies to moving.

Mussolini may counsel one step at a time. On Zita's attitude the fate of Central Europe largely hinges.

Guiding Ship of State

X-9ERS HURRY PUP NAMES

Already the boys and girls of the Secret Agent X-9 Club are on the trail of that cute little Eskimo puppy, and they have begun to send in their names for this fuzzy pet which will be given away free to the member submitting the name he [illegible] best fitting by the judge.

Boys and girls have always longed for a puppy and this one is offered free just through X-9ers membership in the club.

The puppy is an Eskimo puppy born eight weeks ago at Norumbega Park, a roly poly woolly puppy, full of fun and mischief—and [illegible] he needs is a name. And all the Secret Agent has to do is furnish a name and write a letter of 100 words or less giving a reason why he or she likes it.

In submitting your names for the puppy, Secret Agents include your own name and address and the number of your membership card in the club.

Each contestant is limited to three names for this fur-loving puppy; that is, you may submit only three names as your choices. Send your names to Secret Agent Puppy, Boston Evening American, Winthrop square, Boston.

The Big Chief will select the winning name and his selection and award of the puppy will be final.

WASHINGTON SIDESHOW

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

[illegible]

Washington, Aug. 17—Republican leaders in Washington are greatly encouraged over the outcome of recent primaries. They have reason to be. There has been a falling off in the normal party vote, but no indication of that disintegration of party which has been so freely predicted. The G. O. P. is still a factor to be reckoned with.

In Ohio Senator Fess, outstanding critic of the New Deal, was renominated, and the cancellation of the air mail contracts in particular went through handsomely with the endorsement of his constituents, while the Democratic senatorial candidate desired by Mr. Farley, the gentleman who cancelled the air mail contracts, has gone down to defeat.

But Washington candidly concedes that the victory of former Governor Vic Donahey is no conspicuous setback for the New Deal, which the astute victor endorsed at least three times during his campaign. What happened is that inept Democratic politics in Washington permitted the organization in Ohio to be split between Representative Charles West, the administration favorite, and Governor George White. Donahey, always a one hander, nosed in between them.

"Fighting Words"

Having been defeated, West, won't be quite as available now as the New Deal spokesmen on the most interesting debating team that has been gotten up since 'way back at the turn of the century, when Champ Clark, of Missouri, and white-whiskered General Charles Grosvenor of Ohio, representing the Republicans, went barnstorming the country, settling political rows which were rather warm. Champ and the General would almost [illegible] reserves which he had [illegible]. It was [illegible] that two men could say such things of each other without [illegible].

[illegible] after the meeting, Champ and the General would start the [illegible] return to the privacy of their hotel to hobnob in the most amicable manner. Off the platform they were warm and devoted friends. But the breathless audiences which always expected one of these debates to end in a duel never got onto that.

For some time past West has been touring the country debating with that sturdy New Deal critic, Senator Dickinson, of Iowa. Now all Dickinson will have to say to make his adversary curl up is, "What a licking you and the new deal did get in Ohio!" It looks as though the Democratic committee would have to find a pinch hitter for Charlie.

Island Is Gift

When a man achieves the ambition of becoming a United States Senator the world is apt to hold him a lucky fellow. When in addition he achieves a universal ambition common to all mankind, the public reaction is mighty apt to be that the Gods have taken him right up on their lap. Somebody has given an island to Senator Bob Reynolds, of North Carolina.

This particular island is no flea-speck unworthy of a place on the map. It is off the North [illegible] coast, over the [illegible] and measures an [illegible] acres in extent. In a word, it's a real island. When he learned [illegible] Bob proposed building a house on it [illegible] Jim Moffett, federal housing administrator, promptly suggested a loan. The senator came right back:

"What do I need with a loan? There's an abandoned lighthouse right on the island. My house won't cost me over $500."

You're right, [illegible] don't need a loan.

It escaped notice the other day when Representative [illegible] Ayres of Kansas was recommended for another term that he wouldn't be able to serve. It was a case of [illegible] labor lost.

Some months ago in the rush and hurry, President Roosevelt appointed Bill to the Federal Trade Commission. The senate confirmed him. Kansas went ahead and renominated him anyhow. Now Bill will have to resign and the committee will have to name another candidate. So in a week or so now we shall be referring to Commissioner William A. Ayres. One commissioner, more or less, is mighty apt to get missaid nowadays in the Washington shuffle.

County Rule Waste Hit By Mrs. Fry

Women of Massachusetts can do more toward [illegible] of county government than any other group in New England, [illegible] Mrs. Letitia Whipple Fry, of [illegible]

[illegible]

COUNTY RULE SCORED

[illegible]

"Without a doubt, at the moment the women of Massachusetts can do more toward the abolition of county government than any other element in New England.

"There is a sound feeling in the [illegible] Bay State that the purely political gang is growing should be eliminated. As usual, the question arises as to how this vitally necessary step may be brought about.

LIKE HOUSEKEEPING

As a matter of fact the present government problems are not so very far removed from the average woman's small housekeeping problems.

"A good housekeeper is per se a good organizer, one who keeps the wheels of the machinery running without grinding or commotion, who keeps order above all and maintains pleasant relationships.

"No woman who is successful in her housekeeping can fail to understand the housekeeping of the state, especially of late since under the gloom of the depression so many faults and examples of mismanagement have been revealed.

"Among them the outstanding item is the folly and waste of the county government system that results in the consumption of such vast sums. And to what advantage? It is just arranged that a group of well-intrenched political cads may continue to profit.

"But with the passing of many unprofitable institutions to the welfare of the state, both men and women are convinced that the abolition of county government with its constant drain on the taxpayer must go.

"The state, fortunately, is looking to the women, the housekeepers who know what good government really means. They are asked and they are ready to put their shoulder to the wheel and precipitate the matter.

"Eight million dollars a year wasted so that 'petty pols' may prosper is anathema to all sensible women.

"A thought has come to me lately that I have dwelt on with increasing interest. It is the vast and important difference between the politician and the statesman. It is a difference that should be well considered these days, for there have been far too many politicians and far too few statesmen of late.

"The politician has his own welfare foremost in his mind. He is selfish, bigoted, small and dominated by his all-consuming greed.

"The natural statesman rises over the petty, small and selfish. He loses himself, his aims and ambitions in the common good of those he serves—those who have put their trust in him.

"Utopia, I hear you scoff. Not so. Only a higher, finer plane, a nobler goal for those who would lift this country out of the quagmire and morass of petty meanness, deception and selfish aims.

"For who will deny that we are today the victims of self-centered and greedy politicians, bankers and brokers? They have been a majority which — Heaven be praised—seems to have dwindled to a minority.

"Let us abolish all the fungus growths, the outworn ritual of county government and above all, let us abolish politicians and create statesmen.

"And again I say, the duty of women is clear in this respect. Let us be heard [illegible]! The government of the state affects women just as much as it does men. The waste as surely affects them.

"It is my opinion that the women of Massachusetts are going to be heard from emphatically in government circles in the future."

WOMAN SOUGHT IN SHOP BOMBING

This Is Life
ROBERT E. ROGERS

Last week I quoted with some approval Jay Franklin's "Vanity Fair" article on the ragged individualism of New England and its attitude toward the Roosevelt policies. It occurred to me then that there must be another angle to the problem, distasteful as that angle may be to us in Massachusetts. The President's speeches in the West, in defence of his money-spending policies and the increasing "dam consciousness" of the American people, exhibited one phase of that other angle. And I have just run across a brilliant and eloquent article telling the whole story from the point of view of the Westerner. It ought, I suppose, to go into the record as a kind of set-off to the Franklin hosannahs.

Robert E. Rogers

The article is called "The West; A Plundered Province." It appeared in the August Harper's Magazine. It was written by one Bernard De Voto of Cambridge, born and brought up in the West, who writes with a pointed energy [illegible] a professional pedagogue. His article is a defence of the West, and an historical explanation why the cartoonists usually depict the Westerner as "gaunt, ragged and wild-eyed, a mendicant and rapacious," full of the wildest Utopian schemes for self-improvement at the expense of the East. When times are worse than usual he is depicted as "riding a whirlwind or rushing over a cliff, invariably dragging the Republic with him, and the lightning round his head is labelled Socialism, Bolshevist Daydreams, or National Bankruptcy."

[illegible] explanation is the real Westerner of the [illegible] the only section of America [illegible] traditional pioneering was impossible where [illegible] were [illegible] and where the [illegible] possible was a debtor's civilization. It was the land of scant rain, a land of drouth and insect plagues, a land of poisonous earth, where [illegible]

[illegible] it was a land that could be conquered only with the help of modern technology [illegible] things, locomotives, barbed wire, repeating pistols and rifles, modern plows and harrows, harvesters and threshers, artesian wells and [illegible] machinery, all of which had to be bought from protected Eastern industry and paid for with products depreciated in price by that same protection. When the Westerner started pioneering he found the Eastern manufacturer and, especially, the Eastern financier ahead of him. And for nearly a century he has never got away from him.

"Very early the West memorized a moral; the wealth of a country belongs to the owners and the owners are not the residents or even the stockholders but the manipulators—the trust companies and the holding companies." Mr. De Voto's symbolic figure is Deacon Perkins, back in Massachusetts, who borrowed from his bank at 3 per cent and lent in the West for 12 per cent. And as time progressed and finance became more expert and complex, on Deacon Perkins' heels came "the water companies, the road companies, the land companies, the grain storage companies, the mortgage companies."

"The Westerner has seen palaces rise in Fifth avenue and the endowments of universities and foundations increase with a rapidity that establishes the social conscience of his despoilers. The water company that took a mortgage on his farm grew into a bank, joined a network of interlocked, pilfering agencies, changed into a holding company, and ended as an underwriter of railroad bonds and a depressant of farm prices in the interest of someone's foreign trade. In his whole country no one has ever been able to borrow money or make a shipment or set a price except at the discretion of a board of directors in the East, whose only interest was to sequester Western property as an accessory to another section's finance.

"Meanwhile, the few alpine forests of the West were levelled, its minerals were mined and smelted, all its resources were drained off through the perfectly engineered gutters of a system designed to flow eastward. It may be empire building. The Westerner may be excused if it has looked to him like simple plunder."

[illegible] be in rebellion, trying to get a little of its own back. That is why he is the hardest bitten realist of us all, because he alone realizes that there are other limits than the sky. That is why he will always be a potential drain on Eastern money and a menace to Eastern control, always a "wild-eyed, [illegible] Bolshevist [illegible] the California political situation.

[illegible] tenacious, over-worked and cynical, [illegible] with no more romance to him than the greasewood and alkali in which he labors. He is the first American who has worked out a communal adaptation to his country, abandoning the hope that any cross-roads may become Chicago. The long [illegible] may show history has precedents that the dispossessed have the laugh on their conquerors.

A brilliant, bitter and persuasive article. After reading it one understands why Mr. De Voto came East to live. "The conquered Grecian at the Roman board."

Dump Dwellers Face Eviction

[illegible] living in make-shift huts on the Everett city dumps, faced eviction today, following an announcement by Fire Chief James J. Evans, that many fires had resulted there.

Chief Evans said that he might call upon police to force these men, who live on "pickings" from the dump, to move.

Former Teacher Leaves $87,576

The estate of Mrs. Grace M. Miller of Brookline was found to total $87,576.32 when the inventory was filed in Probate Court at Dedham.

Mrs. Miller, formerly a teacher in the Russell School of Expression in Boston, left $21,000 to public institutions.

Two More Patrolmen Face Wild Taxi Party Quiz

Two Dudley street patrolmen under suspension and stripped of their badges and guns faced trial board action today for alleged participation in a drunken taxi-ride party with two women.

A companion, operator of the cab, was to appear in South Boston court on a charge of drunkenness. Police said additional charges are expected to be placed against him.

Police officials in ordering this move also said that two other patrolmen, known to have been with the party earlier, will be questioned today to determine what action may be taken against them.

The suspended patrolmen, Napoleon [illegible] Dubois and Frank H. D[illegible]n [illegible] erty, both in uniform, though off duty, were taken into custody following a party.

According to police, Mrs. Carrie E. Knight, of Warren place, Roxbury, wife of a Dudley street patrolman, Seldon P. Knight, sustained a black eye in a fight alleged to have occurred during the ride. She was released after being questioned for several hours.

Others involved in the party, police say, were John Kempton, 31, of Balfour street, driver of the taxi, Miss Eveleyn Reidy, of Warren place, and Arthur Gallagher, of Vernon place, all of Roxbury.

Kempton was under arrest today charged with drunkenness and additional charges are due to be placed against him.

LICENSE RULE ENDS AT TIDE

The authority of the Boston Street Commission in granting licenses for the storage and sale of gasoline stops at the low tide mark, according to the city law department.

Question was raised when Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin asked for a ruling on the issue in connection with the sought-for removal of floating filling stations from the Fish Pier anchorage to a point farther down the harbor.

The city law department stated that the harbor police has the right to assign specific anchorages to these floating stations, but that only the state fire marshal has jurisdiction over the licensing of them.

HOG INDUSTRY SMILES AT U. S.

As New England farmers continued to smile with satisfaction over the profitable business of not raising pigs, it was revealed that errors in the census of 1930 resulted in the federal underestimate of the [illegible] of the hog industry in this state.

According to A. F. MacDougal of Concord, Middlesex County agent, there were 1000 farms in that county alone left out of the 1930 enumeration.

Meanwhile in Waltham, three pig owners were worrying today over the possibility that they may be forced out of the "raising fewer pigs" occupation unless they take action in cleaning up their piggeries.

LYNN ERA PLANS STRIKE VOTE

An Everett concern [illegible] $6,237.62 for the same [illegible] Originally the Public Works department asked for an appropriation of $14,000 for the trucks, which the city government cut to $7,500.

5 of 14 Quit Race Against Langone

Five of the 14 candidates opposing the Democratic renomination of Senator Joseph A. Langone of the North End from the 2nd Suffolk District withdrew today from the contest in papers filed with the secretary of state. The five who got out are James J. Coffey, Michael Langone, Joseph A. [illegible], Salvatore Valenti and Briscoe Sacco.

SOMERVILLE BLAST STARTS HUNT FOR 3

Two men and a woman are being sought today by police in connection with the bombing of a Mystic avenue, Somerville, barber shop which shook the neighborhood and demolished the shop.

A price cutting war is believed to have been the cause of the bombing police said.

THREATENED IN LETTER

Russell F. LeBlanc, 26, of Florence street, owner of the barber shop, told police he had received a letter threatening him unless he increased the price of his haircuts from 25 cents to 35 cents.

The two men and the woman who are being sought were seen speeding away from the vicinity of the barber shop in a sedan immediately after the bomb, a home-made affair, exploded.

The bomb was tossed through a window and exploded [illegible] after [illegible] LeBlanc told police he was [illegible] in front of his home a half mile away when he heard the explosion but did not know it was his shop.

Search for the two men and the woman began after Anthony Almeida, of Russell court, Malden, told police he saw two tough looking men standing in front of the shop a few moments before the explosion.

Immediately following the blast the same two men and a woman drove past him and sped toward Medford, Almeida told police.

SECOND BLAST ATTEMPT

Willard Beckwith of Crescent street, Somerville, told police he saw two men standing in front of the store and then walk away. They had gone but 100 yards when the explosion occurred, he said.

Examination of the interior and fragments of the bomb convinced police that it was a home-made affair, and had been exploded by means of a detonator instead of a fuse.

The explosion is the second attempt to force LeBlanc out of business made within a year. Previously thieves entered his barber shop and stole all his razors, shears, clippers and other equipment.

Everett Police Box Disappears

Police of Everett are trying to solve a new mystery.

When Patrolman Edward E. Conley went to the corner of Second and Lewis streets to ring his duty call from the police signal box there he found the box missing. Headquarters were notified and the department sleuths started to check up. None of the city departments had taken the signal box, so police finally decided someone had stolen it.

Marines Praised On N. E. Recruits

Colonel James J. Meade of the United States Marine Corps, native of Charlestown and at present in charge of recruiting for the Marine Corps, is in Boston inspecting the recruiting station at the federal building.

He congratulated Lieutenant-Colonel H. B. Pratt, U. S. M. C., officer in charge of the Boston district and Commander J. T. Kennedy, medical examiner on the type of recruits from New England.

A group of us [illegible] crossed Washington Bridge just before sun-up the other morning. New York stretching southward in the pearly dawn seemed a clean unwritten page. A thousand and one things murder, lust, robbery, betrayal and what not that people would be discussing before dusk were locked in the calm grayness. Then a smoldering [illegible] pinkness and as though the city had suddenly flung off a wrap, clear daylight. Daylight pure and white like snow before trodden into mud.

Nearly all the picturesque figures that gave the Rialto [illegible] charm and coloring have gone over the horizon. Only a handful of theaters try to keep what is left of the tradition going. In the shrinking one thinks of that sturdy old crew, every one of whom were a trade mark of personal adornment. Oscar Hammerstein and his conical silk hat, Pudgy Erlanger with cap [illegible] Ziegfeld and his lavender and Belasco his backward collar. Si Goldfriend and his stove-pipe derby, etc. Of that thundering theatrical period only Lee Shubert, C. B. Dillingham and Morris Gest remain, Shubert and Dillingham active and Gest marking time.

One of the theater's most confusing anomalies is Brock Pemberton, the grim looking Kansan, regarded as one of the shrewdest in the business. Sometimes he does not foster a production for three years. Hartley Manners and the rest got the better restaurant tables and choice first night seats. And were pointed out with awe wherever they went. The playwrights stepped from his box for a curtain speech and the stars fluttering kiss at a bit premiere provided one of Broadway's startling spectacles. Few remember the name of a screen playwright.

Clyde Fitch was the Noel Coward of his day. An exquisite, he had a powder puff manner more noticeable in those roaring days than in the era that followed. Yet his daintiness was somewhat a mask as a bully of the town once discovered in the Holland House [illegible]. He sought Fitch there about an insult to a lady friend in one of a play. Fitch almost stamped him to death. Flicked a handkerchief from his pocket, dusted off his hands and minced off in his mignon way.

I enjoy clammy taxi charioteers even to the sort having a fare is Buddy. One this evening after a few blocks swerved to the curb and with a smirk suggesting caper inquired: "How about a nifty boonie?" Despite the sudden affinity to long lost wordliness I affected reproof and bade him hurry on. After settling the tariff and feeling I had given a trifling affront I bestowed a cheery goodbye. He called back: "Good night, firesider."

Every week a total of $50 in prizes will be given for news tips telephoned in to the News Tip Editor at Liberty 4000. And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an important meeting is scheduled for a certain date, that an accident has happened, that there is going to be a business merger, that a celebrity is coming to town? That's a news tip. There will be given $25 weekly for the best first exclusive news tip received, $10 for the next best and $1 prizes for each of the fifteen next most valuable news tips. This offer is now in effect. Remember that SPEED is the watchword. First to the telephone with the news wins the award. News tips mean money.

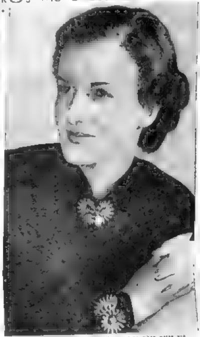
Given in Marriage

By Adele Garrison

CHAPTER I

Jewelry Makes the Dress that Makes the Woman

WEED ... for the accent ... he improved by ... tooth beads in ... lamp shade ... for the right type of ... cuffs and cuffs have ... of beads. And en sembles are particularly chic.



DAISIES can be far from naive when pairs are worn at the throat and wrist. Collarless daytime frocks unrelieved by lingerie touches are by far the smartest, and the wise girl will add her individual touch and a goodly dash of pep with these daisies which come in a variety of color combinations. For the gypsy in her she might choose Goya bracelets which have a beautiful clang.

ANOTHER ensemble has conventionalized sunflowers or black-eyed susans, you guess which, in clusters. The necklace has a clasp in back so that the cluster actually stays on the side where it belongs, instead of swinging around at its own sweet will. This charming and inexpensive jewelry is from a Boston shop. Phone Annice Brink LIBerty 4000 for further detail, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

Too-Well Lubricated Faces Suffer During Hot Weather; Need Special Routine

By Juliet Shelby

GIRLS who have oily skin certainly have my sympathy in weather like this. I know how tremendously difficult it is for them to keep looking fresh and smart ... ting a rich coat of tan helps matters a great deal, but extra special care of the skin is necessary to keep it attractive on hot days.

Of course proper cleansing is the most important part of any local treatment. Frequent daily washings with a pure soap and warm water do much to keep the skin free of excess oil, but if you live and work in a city you probably find that this method does not really and truly cleanse your skin.

Honey-Cream Drink

Question. Ever since I can remember I have envied those girls whose figures are "just right." I am painfully thin and no matter what I do I can't gain weight. Please advise me.

S. N., Taunton.

Electrolysis Removes Hair

Question. Can you advise me as to how I can remove the superfluous hair from my hands and legs? Can the hair between the eyebrows be painlessly removed?

N. R., Dedham.

Answer. You can remove ... prefer you can use a bleaching method. This does not destroy the roots or remove the hair but it deadens the growth ... one-half teaspoon ammonia to three tablespoons of peroxide ... as often as convenient.

... Ask your doctor to recommend a licensed operator ... reputation and efficient ... of work.

Liver Spots

Question. What will remove "liver spots" from the skin? What causes whiteheads and how may they be cured?

L. S., Lowell.

Pancake Beret

THE BERET is back again, larger and flatter than ever. After several months of clutching at huge cartwheel hats, women appreciate the beret which clings faithfully to the head in the face of the stiffest gale. One of the smartest of these new berets is the brown felt model, flat as a pancake and dipped sharply over one eye. Brown, black and blue are the favorite colors for smart women are now wearing cool dark hats and dark kid shoes with their new printed sheer dresses.

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

J. S. Bache & Co.—A composite average picture reveals a series of ascending bottoms since the termination of the July downswing. This evidence of resistence to pressure on a gradually rising scale would appear to be open to favorable interpretation in appraising the market's near-term outlook.

Josephthal & Co.—It is possible that the better action of stocks during recent sessions is in anticipation of improvement in the business situation after Labor Day.

Shields & Co.—Worthwhile sponsorship continues to hold aloof, heightening the belief that present efforts cannot effect any change in the main price trend.

Hornblower & Weeks—As there is no evidence of liquidation at this time, we are of the opinion that the market will pierce this resistance in due course of time, before there is a reaction of any consequence.

PRICE CHANGES NARROW IN DULLNESS

New York, Aug. 17.—W[illegible] the commodity markets [illegible] stocks from [illegible] effect today and the [illegible] a week-end [illegible] time [illegible] from the [illegible]ng.

With the exception of a few [illegible] in the [illegible] operators [illegible] of stocks showed [illegible] yesterday's closing levels.

U. S. Steel opened [illegible] higher on a small [illegible] and then just maintained [illegible] own. Other [illegible] similar performance.

Scattered [illegible] the utility shares.

Consolidated Gas, American Water Works and Commonwealth & Southern were [illegible] to be [illegible].

Railroad stocks were [illegible] mixed with Lehigh Pacific off more than half a point while Atchison and New York Central showed fractional gains.

In the commodity markets wheat lost from fraction to more than a cent a bushel and cotton [illegible] down about 75 cents a bale.

General Motors and Chrysler were dull and firm.

Sales to 11 a. m. approximated 120,000 shares.

Minor price changes were recorded in dull first hour dealings today. Some scattered improvement occurred in the industrials. Rails were steady.

U. S. Smelting rose more than a point while fractional gains were shown by Du Pont, American Commercial Alcohol, General Motors and American Smelting. U. S. Steel was about even but American Telephone sold a little lower. Atchison was up nearly 1.

While they waited for seasonal influences to stimulate business, markets were confronted with a few faint signs of expansion in credit use by industry.

Commercial paper outstanding on July 31 totaled $158,400,000, an increase of $17,000,000 over June and $71,700,000 higher than a year previous.

In addition to disclosure that the RFC has made 91 direct loans to industry aggregating about $7,000,000, the weekly Federal Reserve banks were speeding up capital loans. The industrial advances item revealed a gain of $156,000 to $214,000.

With a further gain of $[illegible] lifting member bank reserves to a new peak, a great reservoir of potential bank credit expansion remained almost untapped.

As it waited for additional quotations from the securities and exchange commission, Wall Street noted the comment of Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, that the first rules handed down this week were very constructive.

Farm products continued briefly to further gains [illegible] commodity price indices. The [illegible] of labor statistics wholesale price index last week rose four-tenths of 1 per cent to 75.4, the highest since March, 1931.

The dollar was soft in early foreign exchange dealings. The British pound rose [illegible] of a cent to $5.09[illegible]. French francs were [illegible] of a cent higher at 6.[illegible] cents.

Dollar Is Lower in London Trading

London, Aug. 17 (AP).—The United States dollar was reactionary today, depreciating 1[illegible] cents to the pound and closing at 5.10 to the pound as compared to the overnight rate of 5.08[illegible].

The opening was at 5.08[illegible] and the weakening was due to renewed pressure by selling elements as well as to sales in order to obtain British pounds for the purchase of gold and silver. The commercial demand was moderate and the close was the lowest price of the day.

Silver Trading Heavy

Since decision of President Roosevelt to nationalize silver, [illegible] in London has reached record proportions and [illegible] are participating in the increased business. There has been some local speculative demand, but this and heavy buying from America has been offset by large sales from China [illegible] profit taking sales.

Opinion in local bullion circles [illegible] that the market has a firm appearance, but that present quotations are dependent upon continuation of American support. Failing this the present level might be difficult to maintain in face of further sales from China.

It is estimated 6,000,000 ounces of silver were shipped to America last week.

Moffett Defends Building Costs

Housing Administrator Moffett [illegible]

"If industry generally is operating with little if any profit, it is not in position to make a radical reduction in prices. I see no reason why repairs, improvements and modernization and the building of new houses should be done without a fair profit to industry. Prices must be fair to both producer and consumer. All leading items in building costs are below 1926 level and investments for repairs or new construction at present price level constitute a proper basis for investment."

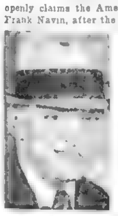
Mickey Comes Home; The Strange Saga of An Ideal Competitor

Navin Could Have Had Ruth for Nothing; $100,000 for Mickey

By AUSTEN LAKE



Austen Lake

IT IS FITTING WITH MICKEY COCHRANE'S character that openly claims the American League pennant for Detroit and Mr. Frank Navin, after the historic fashion that Admiral Byrd requisitioned Little America for God and the United States. There are no halves with Cochrane's ideal, and nothing worth mentioning behind first place. We will be hearing more about this tomorrow when he comes to chivvy the Red Sox

I like to think of myself as the only newsman who witnessed the athletic birth of Cochrane, who was not Mickey then, but merely "Kid," who stood on the fringe of B. U.'s first football practice in September of 1921, as abject an object as I have ever seen.

IN THOSE DAYS AS NOW, COCHRANE blushed a ruddy surge when you talked to him. He was bashful and unknown. But when Dr. Whelan, the Boston X-ray specialist, who doubled in football coaching, yelped for a second team halfback ("Anyone of you boys"), the "Kid" leaped as though jabbed with an icepick.

And presently in that first scrimmage—Whelan was a rugged individual who believed in quick action—Cochrane was carrying the ball, skipping over the pebbly, weedy stretch behind the Commonwealth avenue bill boards.

He spun like a human top, broke step and straight armed. He slipped his hips and shuttled between tacklers until he came to the end of the vacant lot and against the wall of an apartment house.

Whelan made no comment, but there was a bright light in his eye as he lined up the two teams. And Cochrane did it again and still once more. "Might have been an accident the first time," the Doctor rumbled. But his experienced eye understood that here was one of those rare specimens, the instinctive athlete who did things naturally and needed no teaching.

IN MANY WAYS COCHRANE is a pocket edition of the great Indian, Jim Thorpe, whom his Carlisle coach, Glenn Warner once told me could assimilate the knack of any game by watching it for the first time.

Warner discovered Thorpe that way, having left his pipe near the jumping standard, where he had been teaching his Indians the tricky hitch, kick and body roll. And when he went back for the pipe he saw a strange youth doing the difficult leap in perfect form

The lithe youth said his name was "Thorpe, Jeemy Thorpe," and he explained, "Me watch, me jump."

And so with Cochrane, who one day was mooning around the lobby of B. U.'s Boylston street building. The manager of the boxing team bustled up.

"Ever box any, Kid?" he asked. "No," said Cochrane, but I can fight some."

ODDLY, NATURAL ATHLETES ARE ALSO naturally lazy. Try to get a husky fullback son to do chores around the house. So Mickey's mother, a large amiable woman who lives in the family farmstead outside Bridgewater, tells me.

"Work was really painful to Gordon. If you sent him to cut the lawn, you'd have to send somebody else to watch him. He was the disappearingest boy I ever saw."

BUT ON THE SPORT FIELD, Cochrane was a bundle of nerves and energy. Even in little social games he is a sorry loser.

I recall playing a game of golf with him and Jimmy Foxx over the Spring Valley Country Club course, near Philadelphia, in the fall of '32, and heard Mickey blaspheme himself while he furled back his lips like a window sash over a missed putt.

"Well, you yellow such and such," he would snort at himself You flinched like a gutless pup"

Foxx, for his part, mixed the good with the bad and took both sorts with a good-natured grin and humorous word. He, while a good competitor, was a patient loser. But not Mickey. He literally burns. And the more irritated he is the more dangerous he becomes.

There was the 1931 World Series with the Cardinals, when Burleigh Grimes, always a belligerent, dusted Mickey off with consecutive bean balls, causing Mikey to sprawl in the dust and rise to blister Burleigh with swear words

"I'll knock this apple down your throat," he shouted.

And he almost did, whistling a liner past Grimes's cap that nearly tore his head off and set him on the edge of his spine.

I KNOW, LAST WINTER, THAT WHEN Frank Navin, owner of the Detroit Club, was pondering on his 1934 manager, he whittled his choice down to two men Babe Ruth and Cochrane. Babe he could have had for nothing. But Connie Mack's price on Cochrane was $100,000 cash and a spare catcher

"Take Cochrane" they advised. "If Babe isn't good enough for Colonel Ruppert, he isn't good enough for you."

And Navin, though he could have had Ruth for his carefare, spent the hundred grand, which now he stands to get back many times over in World Series profits.

Girl Fails in Lake Erie Swim Attempt

By Associated Press

Sandusky, O., Aug 17—Thwarted in her first attempt to swim across Lake Erie, 18-year-old Florence Brushaber wants to try again.

She was brought back to her home early today aboard the coast guard patrol boat Diligent after being forced to give up her first try last night by chill and severe stomach pains.

During 10 hours and 20 minutes in the water, she had swum 14 miles of the 33-mile stretch from Point Pelee, Ont., to Cedar Point, O., a distance twice as great as her best previous long-distance mark.

"It was too much of a jump over anything I've tried before," the weary girl said as she was hustled off for a full day of rest.

"I agree with her," said her father, Fred Brushaber. "The water was too cold. I still think she can make it across Lake Erie and I am backing her until she does make it.

Florence insists she'll keep trying, but probably not any more this summer In a few days she'll be back in the water again, training until she has inc[illegible] endurance.

She started from [illegible] shore at 10 53 a. m. (E. S. T.) yesterday, and for the first few hours her crawl stroke ca[illegible] at a good rate.

GUILFORD FACES SOMERVILLE IN CANADA

By BILL GRIMES

With the field of the Canadian open amateur championship boiled down to Jesse P. Guilford, Woodland, "Scotty" Campbell, the defending titleholder from Seattle, Wash.; C. Ross Somerville, London, Ont., and Ernie Palmer, Winnipeg, the "States" have better than an even chance of retaining possession of the title.

Naturally, Guilford is anxious to annex the Canadian title but, if he were given his choice, he would prefer to square accounts with Somerville in preference to bringing home the championship. Big Jesse has a score to settle with Somerville, and is bearing down with everything he has today at Laval-Sur-Le-Lac.

Freddie Corcoran has been trying to convince his friends that Guilford is again at the peak of his game, but did not meet with any success until the "Gun" knocked off Jack Munger in the quarter finals.

According to the starting times for the New England sectional qualifying round for the national [illegible] at the [illegible] Club, the final threesome, Franklin T. Pfaelzer, Jr., Howard Paul and Eddie Martin, are not scheduled to start their second round until 4.18 p. m.

The U. S. G. A. would do well to take a leaf out of President Charlie Cross' book and eliminate all players who were 88 or higher during the morning round. It's going to be some feat to get the field through two rounds before darkness sets in.

Although he failed to break 100 during the fourth annual tournament of the Business Men's Council of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies at Kernwood, Mortimer Gryzmish played to his handicap for his reduced score equalled par.

The annual South Shore League championship will be played next week at Cohasset Country Club. There will be an 18-hole qualifying round on Thursday and match play for two days. Althought it has never received any publicity, the South Shore championship is of great interest and furnishes some keen competition.

Despite the rain there was a goodly number of golfers in [illegible] at Bear Hill and Hatherly yesterday. The Bear Hill will continue through tomorrow but the Hatherly invitation winds up today.

Equine Explains Why Horses Have Their Off Days

By Dave Egan

Narragansett Park, Aug. 17.

Horse (kindly)—Well, what can I do for you, my good man?

Reporter (in a servile manner)—The paper sent me. They want to get your impressions of this country. What do you think of the girls? Does the repeal affect you?

Horse—It's thisa way, and then it's thata way. The gals are good, and then they're bad. Some horses go for silver cups, but personally, I like sugar, carrots, and lush, green grass.

Reporter—Would you care to ask me a few questions?

Horse—Yes, I would. Do you know anything about horses?

Reporter—I know that they eat oats. Outside of that, I know nothing, despite the fact that I am an expert. One other thing which I know is that they not only eat up oats, but also eat up a lot of people's money.

Innocent Expression Best for Race Track

Horse—Well, I shall give you my story, straight from the feedbox. I look from the stables, and see the trains rolling in from Boston. Hundreds and hundreds pour off the trains, and all the time I am rolling my eyes, while the colored boys roll the dice.

Reporter—You roll your eyes, sir, and why, may I ask?

Horse—An innocent expression is the best for a race track. The horses, the jockeys, the stableboys, the touts—they were born with innocent expressions.

Reporter—And so what? (Ed note. This is a high order of intelligence for a reporter.)

Horse—So I look them over, and I say to myself, says I: here comes a lot of blokes. Some of them will bet on me and some of them will bet against me, and none of them will know my feelings.

Reporter—Your feelings, what do you mean?

Horse—I have feelings. The customers do not know when I have a cold in the head. They do not know my ligaments are strained, or when my back aches, or when I am indisposed. Did you ever write a poor story?

How Can A Jockey Ride With A Hangover?

Reporter—Many and many a time.

Horse—You've had colds, and headaches, and aches and pains, too, I suppose?

Reporter—Yes, sir.

Horse—The boss bawled you out for writing a miserable story, and you felt poorly about the whole business?

Reporter—Yes, sir.

Horse—Well, that's just how we horses feel. We have our good days and our bad ones.

Only last week, I wasn't feeling too good, and they put a jockey on me. The jockey had a hangover, and I knew it. The crowd kept admiring me and the jockey, and they put a large amount of money on me.

When the payoff came, we were in fourth place, out of the money.

Make ya sick, make ya sick.

Chicago, Aug. 17 (INS) — Two gridiron aces of 1933, George Sauer of Nebraska and Ed Krause of Notre Dame, today shared the captaincy of the collegiate "All-American" football squad that plays the Chicago Bears, professional champions, at Soldiers' field August 31.

Krause was a star tackle at Notre Dame while Sauer was an outstanding fullback on the Cornhusker eleven.

BETTS PITCHES AGAINST CUBS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 17. It's too bad that Fred Frankhouse is such a determined workman.

Too bad both for him and the Boston Braves.

If Freddy hadn't been bearing down so hard yesterday, he might have scored his 16th victory of the season, and the Braves would have won a doubleheader from the Cubs instead of getting no better than an even break.

ED BRANDT LOSES GAME

Frankhouse had a 2-1 lead with one out in the eighth inning of the first game and, the way he was going, he looked a cinch to win.

Then he pulled a muscle in his left side and had to leave the game. Ed Brandt, who relieved him, was nicked for runs in the ninth and 10th that won a 3-2 decision for the Cubs.

Old Flint Rhem salvaged something from the wreckage, however, and proved himself once more the prize bargain of the year for the Braves when he stopped the Cubs in a masterful eight-hit pitching exhibition, to win the second game, 6 to 1.

Bill Lee and Guy Bush, who had won the first game after relieving Lon Warneke in the eighth, were the victims of a four-run assault that won Rhem's game in the fifth inning. Randy Moore later added a homer off Charley Root.

BETTS VS. WEAVER

With a 2-1 edge in the series, Manager McKechnie tried to win the last game today with Huck Betts, who has been successful against the Cubs all season.

Jim Weaver, the Cubs' prize rookie, who has won eight games this season, while losing three, was slated to start for the home team.

Malden, Medford On Gridiron Soon

Earl Grey Golf Trophy Found

Laval Sur Le Lac, Que., Aug. 17 (AP)—The Earl Grey golf cup, which goes to the winner of the Canadian amateur championship, has been located just when it was beginning to look as though the eventual winner would have to go home without it.

The $1200 trophy was shipped from Seattle 10 days ago by Albert (Scotty) Campbell, who won it last year. It finally was located yesterday in a cusoms office in Montreal.

last to drub Jessie D. M. in a five and one-half furlong gallop. Had the same race been the distance of today's jaunt it would have been a win for Morning Mail.

FIRST RACE

Golden Time, Cardamon, Hot Griddle

GOLDEN TIME may come up a good thing in this affair. The daughter of High Time faced the barrier on three occasions at various New York tracks and was well backed against some shifty juveniles. She will be facing the poorest lot that she has ever encountered in this affair. Since arriving at this course she has trained well and is razor sharp. CARDAMON, another New Yorker, has a bangup second to Bobby Buxton to recommend her for the place award. Her final for the race was a half-mile in 49 2-5. HOT GRIDDLE turned a fair effort on the opening day of the meeting and may share in the spoils.

SECOND RACE

Merovech, Lerack, Leaflet

MEROVECH disliked the heavy going in his last and that race may be thrown out. Prior to that effort he finished fifth in back of Ayston. In front of that he drubbed Wilrob, Dornoch, Leaflet and other fair ones over this same distance. LERACK just missed drubbing Lamp Black last out and may prove dangerous. LEAFLET should be along in time to snare the minor award.

THIRD RACE

Allotment, Portfolio, Guiding Light

ALLOTMENT has been racing in sprints at this session and is razor sharp. Over at Salem, he handled better fields over this distance. J. D. Mikel may have PORTFOLIO up to a good effort. The St. James gelding is a right fair hide among these kind when ready. GUIDING LIGHT has been backing up against better ones.

FOURTH RACE

Morning Mail, New Flag, Race Craft

MORNING MAIL just failed to get up at five and one-half furlongs the other day to drub Jessie D. M. Had the race been this same distance, he would have likely been returned the winner. NEW FLAG backed up against better fields at Saratoga. Mayhap, she will hang on long enough to garner the place award. RACE CRAFT'S last race was in the nature of a tightener and may be disregarded. On Chicago form, she stands better than an outside chance.

FIFTH RACE

Redress, Curacao, Bittybit

REDRESS finished third in behind Speedy Skippy and Flying Cadet last out. The latter two came right back Wednesday to finish as named in the Fort Adams claiming stakes. Prior to that effort, REDRESS placed to Cleves. He will be meeting nothing as formidable as the above trio in this affair and should cop the verdict. CURACO has gone a long ways in the betting as his second to Biff the other day will attest. A year ago, the Greentree colorbearer could have breezed through that sort of opposition. However, with little or nothing left in the race, he should hang on long enough to save the place award. BITTYBIT finished close up to Curacao last out and looks next best.

SIXTH RACE

Calome, Baboo, Jim Ormont

CALOME looks good enough on dope to handle this poor lot. That A. A. Baroni colorbearer has been finishing close up with better ones at this session. At Salem, he galloped to a field similar to this. BABOO has been stopping in recent races, but I find it difficult to go past him for the place award. JIM ORMONT has been freshened up and may run an improved race.

SEVENTH RACE

Pernickety, Black Patricia, Wirt G. Bowman

PERNICKETY should have little trouble in handling this lot. BLACK PATRICIA will be dangerous if the going should come up muddy. The daughter of Alibi's best races are in heavy going. Have a hunch that J. D. Mikel may attempt to wake up WIRT G. BOWMAN. The latter can do much better than his recent races show.

REG.U.S. PAT.OFF.

Says Arthur L. Mayer, of the Rialto Theater, N. Y., "I think most exhibitors would make heavy personal sacrifices to forego showing shabby, meretricious, or salacious pictures."

Most of them certainly would. Maybe that's why they don't.

GEORGE IS A CASE

[illegible]

Mrs. Claude Brasuell always gets nervous before going to a funeral. Early this afternoon she was dressing in her home at 805 North Weaver avenue to attend the funeral of a neighbor, Mr. Baldwin, who fell Saturday from a roof.

Her small stepson, George, and her young brother, Eugene Worthy, realizing her nervousness, decided to have some fun. They threw a firecracker into the kitchen of the two-room structure and the blast set fire to the place.

City firefighters, who were sprinkling the dirt road in front of the Baldwin place, where open-air services were to be held, observed the fire. They rushed to the burning building, but it was heavily damaged.

Mrs. Brasuell didn't know whether she would go to the funeral because her dress got wet.

Q. AND A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Aunt Bella:

My wife wants to take a trip to Hollywood but I'm afraid that being away from me and the children after all these years, she'd get homesick. What do you think?

Mr. Walsh, Seattle, Wash.

Ans.—She's homesick already. That's why she wants to go to Hollywood.

Aunt ("Globe Trotter") Bella.

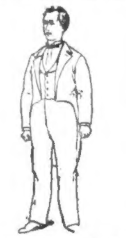
Congenial as a middle-aged waitress in an all-night cafe.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS MAN?



His name is Fitchner B. Doakes. When last seen at Paramount Studios in Hollywood he was wearing a polo shirt and a beret, and giggling hysterically. At the time he was attending a conference called to decide on a new title for Mae West's picture, the Legion of Decency having disapproved of "It Ain't No Sin." It was noticed that Doakes fidgeted impatiently while others made suggestions. Finally he said, "What I think is we oughta do something nice for these people. I mean we oughta make a nice gesture. Why don't we just retitle it: 'Okay, It is a Sin'."

Doakes left the room then and has not been seen since. They say they would like to have him back at the studio. They say they have something for him.

OH, ANNIE — I'M SO HAPPY — I FEEL LIKE CRYING
DON'T DO THAT, BETSY — PLEASE DON'T —
NO CRYING, BETSY — NOT EVEN HAPPY CRYING — YOU GOT LOTS TO LAUGH AT NOW — AN' YOU GOTTA KEEP LAUGHING ALL THE TIME — AN' THEN YOU'LL BE CURED ALL OVER —
AN' NO MATTER HOW GLAD I AM 'CAUSE YOU'RE GETTING CURED, I WON'T BE A BAWL-BABY, EITHER — 'CAUSE THE DOCTOR SAYS YOU MUST BE CHEERFUL— AN' THE BEST WAY TO BE CHEERFUL IS NOT TO DO ANY KIND OF CRYIN'!

No Fight—No Work

THOSE BOYS AT THE GYM ALL THINK DRIB CAN BEAT ANY GUY HE FACES AND I'M NOT GONNA LET HIM FACE MY GUY!
YEH— I'VE BEEN DOING A LITTLE SCOUTING AN' I'VE DECIDED NOT TO LET YOU FIGHT DRIB FOR AWHILE YET — —BUT I KNOCKED HIM OUT IN THE GYM!
JUST A LUCKY PUNCH! THOSE THINGS HAPPEN— WE'VE GOT TO TAKE OUR TIME IN THIS GAME— NO RUSH—
HEY! WHERE YOU GOING?
I'M GOING OVER TO THE GYM AND TAKE A LIGHT WORKOUT!

3 Bids and Proposals

PROPOSAL.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—Department of Mental Diseases.—National Industrial Recovery Project Mass. State No. M.42-P.W.A. Docket No. 4666.—Notice to Contractors.—Sealed separate proposals for (1) Fireproof Stairs, (2) Electric Wiring and Fixtures, (3) Sprinkler System Revisions, (4) Gravity Tank and Tower at the Danvers State Hospital, P. O. Hathorne Mass., will be received by the Department of Mental Diseases at Room 167, State House, Boston, until 2 o'clock, P. M., daylight saving time, Friday, August 31, 1934, and at that time and place will be publicly opened and read. Bids must be made upon the Department's prescribed special form of contract for projects financed and constructed under the terms of the National Industrial Recovery Act and Chapter 365 of the Acts of 1933, to which is attached and made a part thereof The Special Contract Provisions Revised April 15, 1934, of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and the State Emergency Public Works Commission. Special attention of bidders is called to the prescribed minimum wage rates of $1.20 per hour for skilled labor and $.50 per hour for unskilled labor, and to the special provision as to semi-skilled labor.

Pursuant to Executive Order 6646 dated March 14, 1934, no bid will be considered unless it includes or is accompanied by a certificate (worded in accordance with P.W.A. 61 revised March 19, 1934), duly executed by the bidder.

All bidders shall be required to file with their bids a properly executed certificate of workmen's compensation insurance issued by a company satisfactory to the State Commissioner of Insurance.

Plans, specifications and contract forms may be obtained at Room 315, Ford Building, 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, upon deposit of amounts as follows: (1) Fireproof Stairs, $150; (2) Electric Wiring and Fixtures, $350; (3) Sprinkler System Revisions, $125; (4) Gravity Tank and Tower, $75. Make checks payable to the Department of Mental Diseases. These amounts are to be included in the estimates and all checks but those of the successful bidders will be returned upon return of the plans and specifications. Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the architects, M. A. Dyer Company, 1 Beacon Street, Boston.

Bids must be accompanied by properly certified checks on, or certificates of deposit issued by, a responsible bank or trust company in amounts as follows: (1) Fireproof Stairs, $3000; (2) Electric Wiring and Fixtures, $2500; (3) Sprinkler System Revision, $500; (4) Gravity Tank and Tower, $1000; made payable to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Checks and certificates will be returned after execution of the contract upon demand. A surety bond by an approved surety company will be required from the successful bidder in an amount not less than the full amount of the contract. The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals, or to accept any proposal deemed best for the Commonwealth, and no award can be made without the approval of the State Engineer, P.W.A. and of the State Emergency Public Works Commission.

The local registration office of the National Reemployment Service, from which employee lists for this contract shall be obtained (as required in Article C of the Special Contract Provisions) is Massachusetts State Employment Service, George McLaughlin, Superintendent, Post-Office Building, Lynn.

Patriotic Stand Taken by American Legion

THE American Legion might fittingly be called the backbone of true Americanism.

The members of the Legion, gathered in State convention at Brockton, have SEEN and FELT war. They know it is something to avoid.

Consequently they are not deluded by the glib words of those who would lead us again into the trenches of Europe's troubles.

The American Legion of Massachusetts does well to pledge itself against UNPREPAREDNESS.

Departmental Adjutant Harold P. Redden of Springfield sounded a strong note of Americanism when he declared the American Legion of the Bay State would work in schools and colleges to combat "the pacifist and Communistic teachings now so rampant."

A still more militant chord of patriotism was struck when Mr. Redden demanded the deportation of

"Any alien who is convicted of belonging to any party dominated by forces abroad and supported by foreign funds."

It is but natural that our American Legion should demand an Army and a Navy adequate to defend us against whatever may lie ahead.

THESE men KNOW the importance of being prepared when trouble comes.

They fought for Old Glory through a period when, despite our vast resources, we were wholly unprepared for entry into the World War.

Opinions will differ as to whether we should have joined in the great conflict. But no thinking person will deny that we ought to have been in a state of readiness to meet any foreign aggression.

Our American Legion, finally, is to be congratulated for its patriotic stand on the vital public problems here enumerated.. We can't go wrong by being patriotic!

Your Finger-Prints

Plans for a general identification system by means of voluntary finger-printing have been broached on Beacon Hill by Roscoe C. Hill, head of the State Bureau of Identification.

At first mention, the plan arouses opposition in some quarters, largely because finger-printing in this country has been associated almost exclusively with criminal identification.

On second thought, however, the value of the plan becomes apparent, especially in the cases of lost children and amnesia victims.

It is quite common in Europe where almost everyone carries his finger prints with him on little cards, duplicates of which are on file in a central bureau. In case of an accident or other difficulty, identification is quickly established.

Some banks in this country have adopted the plan, since finger prints are far more reliable than signatures. The latter can be forged, but not the former.

Mr. Hill's assurance that the identification files would be kept separate from those of the State Police and would not be available to them should reassure those who object to that aspect of the plan.

Highway Barriers

Motorists who use the new three-lanes-each-way Worcester turnpike have been so loud in their praise of this "super-highway" that it is just in the last few days that inhabitants of the towns through which the pike passes have been able to make their complaint heard above the hallelujah chorus.

To them the highway is a veritable barrier. A wide grass plot separates the two sides of the road and crossovers are spaced pretty far apart. Newton residents, in particular, have found that there are not nearly enough of these.

The driver who wants to get to the other side of the road—for example, to buy the evening paper or the family groceries—finds that he must drive along one side of the road until he finds a crossover.

Then he must drive back along the other side before turning into town. And going home, he must repeat this. It makes rather a long trip for just an errand.

Result: Newton is demanding more crossovers. And should have them.

Public Utilities

Two important movements affecting public utilities are in this week's news.

One is the unanimous vote of the Cambridge City Council to authorize the University City to acquire the property and business of the Cambridge Gas & Light Company.

Several months' time must elapse under the law before further votes necessary to put Cambridge into possession of a municipal gas and light plant can be taken.

The other movement is that launched to have the members of the Commonwealth's Public Utilities body elected by the people instead of being appointed by the Governor.

This second movement was undoubtedly caused by the recent Beacon Hill decision lowering Boston Edison's electric rate but "allowing" the company to charge for new bulbs.

Which most observers calculated threw Mr. Consumer for a net loss of several notches in the household budget account!

New England Council

When the New England Council was organized several years ago, there were plenty of sceptics as to its likelihood of doing anything notable.

But the New England Council has done so well for this section that representatives of Southeastern States are planning to meet this Fall to organize a similar body.

Representatives of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Virginia and the Carolinas are to get together, according to plans being pushed today.

Long life to our New England Council and the new business it is bringing us! It must be good to be copied.

Stamp Suggestions

President Roosevelt is a dyed-in-the wool stamp enthusiast. This is partly shown by the record number of new stamps issued under his regime. The latest is one just put on sale in Boston, booming our national parks.

The Federal government has immense park reservations in New England, notably in the White Mountains. Why not a stamp with the famous profile of the "Old Man?" Cape Cod, ...mer playground of a host of Americans, could also be ...amped" via the shrine of Plymouth Rock.

Arming the Public's Enemies

The Federal Government has a new law to control the sale of machine guns—a law aimed at murderous gangsters and bandits.

The purpose of the law is to restrict such weapons to the military and to authorized police.

And now the Department of Justice has disclosed that the Government itself has been revealed as indirectly arming its enemies.

As a part of the national defense the Federal Government pays seventy per cent of the cost of maintaining a National Guard in the States and the Federal Government furnishes the weapons needed.

And these weapons—due, it is charged, to politics and laxity in the States—are being stolen from the armories by gangsters. A recent editorial said:

"More than one thousand rifles, machine guns and pistols, and thousands of rounds of ammunition are alleged to have been stolen from National Guard armories within recent months.

"The Federal Government is WITHOUT AUTHORITY . . . to safeguard this auxiliary of the national defense against the nefarious exploitation of irresponsible politicians."

There is one solution of the problem. Unless ALL the States where these thefts occur take ACTIVE measures to prevent Federal arms and munitions from falling into gangster hands, the Federal Government will have to assume the authority that it now lacks.

The Government cannot permit its own property to be used to circumvent its own laws.

Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

SHE USES SEEING WORDS

I did not know at first that Dolly Glass was blind. Listening, I still wouldn't know it for she always uses seeing words.

Dolly has a beauty shop in the little town near which I ranch. She's beautiful herself, with a sort of inner glow that warms her quiet, gentle motions, easy chuckle, tea-rose skin and shining, honey colored hair. Even her dark violet eyes are bright with friendliness.

Elsie Robinson

Once Dolly could see through those eyes. Then, at 12, tragedy came. She faced a life of darkness. Were there frantic hours of rebellion? If so, nobody knows for, from the first, she refused to act blind.

TOOK COURAGE

Young as she was, she perceived that she could set boundaries on her blindness if she wished. She need not be completely unlike other little girls. She could not see as they did, but she need not think blind nor talk blind.

It must have taken incredible courage to choose seeing gestures, seeing words. She had to put aside so much more than eye darkness. She had to put aside darkness of the spirit—discouragement, self-pity, even sympathy. For though she was only a child, she saw the danger of these things.

It would have been so easy for her to use her blindness to attract attention and to duck responsibility. Other blind people did. And no one blamed them. But a darkness like that was more terrible than any sickness of the eyes.

So Dolly chose to keep a seeing heart. If she couldn't see with her eyes, she could see with her mind and spirit. And perhaps, if she was always reaching out, she might break through to a soul sight which even those who were sound of eye did not always discover.

She was still only a child. Naturally, she did not put her struggle to herself in these words. But that was the thing she felt, beneath all the terror and despair. And that was the thing she did. Against the incredulous surprise and urgent warnings of her friends, she decided to take—of all things!—a course in beauty treatments.

Obviously, it would be impossible for her to do certain things. But she could—and she did—learn Swedish massage, facial work, shampooing. Today there is not a more expert facial operator or masseuse than laughing, lovely Dolly, who keeps her little shop in Sonora, Tuolumne County, Cal.

SHE LIKES LETTERS

(Yes, that's her real address. I've given it in case you may wish to write. She likes letters.)

A blind beauty operator—but, as I said before, you'd never know it, for she always uses seeing words.

"What a lovely dress you had on yesterday," she cries. "I liked that circular flounce, and that shade of blue is so becoming, Elsie."

With her eyes, Dolly will never see that dress. But—using another's eyes, another's words, she has seen it with her spirit. And, by opening her spirit, she has achieved something that the one who wore the dress and the one who saw it has never achieved.

It is so much more exciting to FEEL beauty than it is to merely own it or wear it. And Dolly FELT that lovely, sweeping blueness.

She made its beauty a part of herself. She had an adventure in beauty. While I, who own it, only have a dress.

"I saw such a wonderful sunrise yesterday morning," says Dolly, smoothing cream over a face that feels as if all suns had set forever. "Rose took me down the highway, and we saw it coming up—all coral and primrose—between the black trunks of the pines."

Suddenly, through Dolly's seeing heart, your own blind spirit beholds that sunrise, too. And, in a bright flash, you understand the miracle of Faith.

"NOW FAITH IS THE SUBSTANCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR,
THE EVIDENCE OF THINGS NOT SEEN."

The Bible—Hebrews 11—1.

Out of her darkness, Dolly "hopes for" beauty. And finds it! That nerve which records blue, green, yellow and red is destroyed. But a more sensitive organ has taken its place—the organ of Faith. And so, though she misses the outer film of things, she has the precious substance—the shining evidence.

We too, you and I, are blinded by a darkness . . . the darkness of our own ignorance and fear. Blindly we turn our desperate faces to life, seeking those things we "hope for" . . . that proof of love and justice and honor which will make all the pain worth while. And see only the barriers of our own darkness. But we, too, can pierce those barriers and behind the darkness find a great and lasting light—if we will. For it had been said—and this blind girl proves it—

"ASK AND IT SHALL BE GIVEN YOU; SEEK, AND YE SHALL FIND; KNOCK, AND IT SHALL BE OPENED UNTO YOU."

The Bible—St. Luke 11—9.

Woman World Needs -:- By Winifred Black

Sallie is blue—very blue indeed—and when I come to think about it, I don't blame Sallie a bit.

Bright little woman, Sallie; light-hearted. She's had a lot of trouble in her day, and it does seem as if she might have a little good luck, just for a change.

Winifred Black

Let me tell you about her. Maybe you'll be interested for a minute or so, anyway.

Sallie was as pretty as a picture, when she began to dance for a living.

And could she dance? She could indeed! She could dance so well that she was paid a topping salary to go around the world two or three times, dancing at every city and every town and every village and almost every camp on the way around.

Sallie had a mother and some brothers and sisters at home, and she was always sending funny little gifts by mail—bolts of odd-looking cloth made of palm fiber and cocoanut fiber, bracelets, earrings, dressing gowns, filigree thingumbobs—but mostly she sent perfectly good postal orders for plain, everyday money.

She sent her little brothers and sisters to school and had a good dentist and a good throat specialist for her mother, and "on the road," as they used to say in those days, she worked very hard, learning new dance steps and practicing them, and making gay little frocks and trimming gorgeous picture hats for herself and the rest of the girls in her company.

Sallie liked to sew, and she just loved trimming hats.

She was crazy about cooking, too, and she always carried a little alcohol arrangement, so she could make sort of homey little suppers in her room after the show.

The room was always full of flowers—roses, lilies, violets and things—and baskets of fruit. Oh, Sallie had a regiment of admirers from one end of the world to the other.

Yes, sometimes she went out to supper with one of the admirers. But somehow she always managed to take one or two of the other girls along.

Then Sallie married. She said she wasn't going to bring her children up in the theater, so she took her savings and bought a little farm and raised strawberries for the market. Later, when her husband died, Sallie brought up her children, and sent them to school, and took care of them when they were ill. And everybody in the little village knew Sallie, and they all sent for her when the old mother lay dying or when the new baby arrived. She was a born nurse and a born mother.

Well, times were pretty hard now for Sallie, as they were for a good many people. But Sallie wasn't discouraged or worried—not Sallie.

"There are lots of people who need me," said Sallie, and she went and asked for a job at the relief bureau.

But there wasn't any room for Sallie there! no, nor at any of the places. You see they don't want anything but university girls. You have to take a course in sociology, it seems, to know how to help a mother with three children and no money, to keep alive.

Well, now, do you know if I were poor and desperate and ill—I believe I'd rather tell Sallie about it, and ask her to help me. Somehow those university girls seem so sort of cool and impersonal.

Old-fashioned of me, isn't it?

Sallie? Oh, she'll get along somehow, just as the Sallies of this world always do. It's the people who need her, and can't get her, that sort of worry me, don't you see?

IMPROVEMENT

How many years of mud and slime
Before man started in to climb?

How many ages long were spent
In that first bleak environment

Before man dared to quit his groove
And his environment improve?

Perhaps with but a single bound
He vaulted up to higher ground.

Then stopped and stretched his hand to aid
The weak, the timid and afraid.

Still dreaming dreams, man's strength is spent
In bettering his environment.

Still slowly is improvement made.
Still do the timid and afraid

Wait for the daring leader who Shall bridge for them the old and new.

People Frown on Governors As Senate Candidates

By James T. Williams, Jr.

Trading the office of governor of a sovereign state for the office of senator of the United States is forbidden by the constitution of one state and is more and more being frowned upon by the people of other states of the Union.

The constitution of the state of Utah forbids a governor of that state during his term of office becoming a candidate for the United States Senate. But for this ban, Mr. Dern of that state would probably have stepped from the office of governor to that of United States senator instead of into the cabinet of President Roosevelt as secretary of war.

TWO GOVERNORS DEFEATED

Two governors seeking the Democratic nomination for United States senator have just been defeated in the primaries of their party—Governor White of Ohio, and Governor Bryan of Nebraska.

Other factors doubtless entered into the defeat of each but in both cases there were probably many voters who thought it unbecoming to turn the office of governor into a senatorial candidate's political headquarters. It put the other candidates for the senatorial nomination at an unfair advantage, because they lacked in their campaign the power and prestige that the office of governor carries.

There was a similar manifestation of popular disapproval in the state of Montana last month. In the Democratic primaries for United States senator the voters of his party refused to nominate Senator Erickson for the seat in the Senate which he now holds on appointment of the governor. Apparently the people of Montana resented the trading in two of their highest offices which they believe took place at the time Senator Walsh of Montana resigned to accept President Roosevelt's appointment as Attorney-General and died on the eve of the inauguration.

Governor Erickson resigned his office. The lieutenant-governor succeded to the governorship and then appointed his predecessor to the seat in the Senate vacated by the resignation of Senator Walsh.

This sort of trading in the offices of the people may be technically within the terms of the federal Constitution but it is not the normal method provided by the organic law for filling either the office of governor or the office of United States senator.

GEORGIA INCIDENT CITED

Where Governors White and Bryan failed in their attempt to use the office of governor as a stepping stone to the Senate, other governors in earlier years have succeeded.

For example, Senator Robinson of Arkansas resigned from the 62nd Cnngress on January 14, 1913, was inaugurated governor of Arkansas January 16, having been elected to that office in the preceding September, and on January 28th was elected to fill a vacancy in the United States Senate.

Senator Russell of Georgia enjoyed a tremendous advantage over Congressman Crisp from the day their primary contest for the United States Senate started, owing to the fact that as governor Mr. Russell had at his disposal the power and prestige of the state organization. This was probably the decisive factor in Senator Russell's victory.

Governor Keyes of New Hampshire was elected to the Senate while in the office of governor and there have been many other cases of the same sort. But the more the people see the office of governor used as a stepping stone to the Senate the less they like it. It defeats the fair contest which the primary was devised to provide. It is contrary to the whole theory of American government.

After an American citizen has been elected governor of a sovereign state he is supposed to be the governor of all the people of the state and to administer that great office solely in the public interest.

No governor can do that who is at the same time conducting a campaign to nominate himself as a candidate of his party for United States senator.

IMPARTIALITY IMPOSSIBLE

It is as impossible to be an impartial governor while running for the United States Senate as it is to be an efficient postmaster general while holding the political offices of the national committee and chairman of a state committee of the party in power.

What the people of Utah have forbidden by means of a provision in their state constitution the people of Montana, Ohio and Nebraska have condemned by their votes at the polls at recent primaries—using the power of the office of governor to obtain a seat in the United States Senate.

Human Side of the News; Fear of Revolution

By Edwin C. Hill

From the wilderness cries a voice to England:

"I fear there is not merely the possibility but the probability that we will have changes of a revolutionary character before long."

It is the voice of Viscount Snowden of Ickornshaw, the message of his seventieth birthday and the announcement of his return to active political life. He leaves his garden and his books behind and hobbles back into the lists on his crutches to do battle with the MacDonalds, the Baldwins and the Chamberlains.

"My fear of revolution," he says, "is based on the failure of Parliament to function properly and, secondly, on the fact that the class war and expropriation of the propertied classes is now being preached everywhere, and is arousing the fears of everybody who has anything to lose."

TOOK TO WRITING

An indomitable will and a fine mind in a frail and hopelessly crippled body—such is Philip Snowden, teacher, insurance clerk, civil servant, Socialist, Chancellor of the Exchequer and peer of the realm.

When he was 27 a bicycle accident made him a cripple for life and seared his face into a gnome-like mask. It robbed him of a livelihood and left him helpless for several years.

He could do nothing for his body, but did much for his mind, devoting his time to a study of government in the Socialistic vein, which was attracting many others in those days, including George Bernard Shaw.

He took to writing and to politics. Long before Pussyfoot Johnson and Lady Astor, he was the champion of the temperance forces in England. He was a marked man from that day, but his enemies learned to fear and to respect the sting of his tongue, the cold logic of his arguments, and they came to know that he was both dauntless and incorruptible.

He got to Parliament, and, shoulder to shoulder with Ramsay MacDonald, fought the cause of the Labor party until the day that saw the fate of the Empire in their hands, with MacDonald as prime minister and Snowden as chancellor of the exchequer.

For all his Socialistic leanings it is "England first and always" with Philip Snowden. Two years ago he led the Socialist revolt out of the Nationalist Government, branding MacDonald as a traitor who had gone over to the Conservatives. The break came over the agreements reached at the Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference.

"The dominions," said Snowden, "looked only to what they could get from the mother country."

He asked for a delay or a modification of the program, and when it was not forthcoming, out he stalked with a sarcastic and bitter attack on Ramsay MacDonald, his personal and political associate for 40 years.

It is MacDonald whom Snowden is gunning for now. To him the Prime Minister is a "tool of the Tories, a man whose vanity, weakness and incoherence will be the nation's undoing if he continues in office."

TROUBLES OF MOVIES

The movies are having their troubles. The brow of Mr. Will Hays, who was a useful servant of the industry, and never its czar, is furrowed with care. The edict has gone forth that sin must go and sex be chucked into the ashcan. All of which must cause a smile to flit across the classic countenance of about the only successful censor the movies ever had.

It is true that he operated in a local and restricted territory, but his word was law. John Michael Casey, once omnipotent ruler of the galloping tintypes in the city of culture, where Cabots speak only to Lowells and Lowells speak only to God, is retired, for age, on a pension; but there was a day when he stirred heartfelt cusswords from the boiling emotions of Hollywood motion picture magnates and theatrical producers.

For to John Michael Casey, in his omnipotent post as purifier of the stage and screen, sin was sin and legs were legs, no two ways about it—no light sand shadows, no getting away from it by calling 'em limbs. At seventy, he tells us that:

"Nothing shall be placed upon the stage or screen to which you could not take your wife, mother or sweetheart."

With that as his guiding rule, John Michael Casey calmly deleted scripts and captions, decreed stockings for bare legs and union suits for step-ins. Like Horatius at the bridge, he barred the way to Boston for "Sappho," "Salome," "The Easiest Way," "The Girl from Rector's" and Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude."

In his younger days he was an orchestra trap-drummer, a vocation which seemed eminently to qualify him for dictatorship of the theater. For years he manipulated his drums, his cymbals, his triangles and xylophones, and imitated the birds and the beasts with his whistles, his conch shells and his bazoos. Then he lost an arm in a railroad wreck and his days as a trick trap-drummer were over.

Boston adopted an ordinance strictly regulating public amusements. John Michael Casey, then a messenger in the Mayor's office, promptly asserted his competency for the post of Chief of the Licensing Division.

That was twenty-six years ago and ever since then, Casey went to bat whenever a show or a picture turned up in Boston that offended his sense of propriety. His dictum was law. Nobody in the country had such local power over stage or screen. And Boston is still wondering: "After Casey, mighty Casey, who?"
